BROOKLYN SUBWAY EXTENSION CAVES IN

A Score of Men Caught and at Least One Killed—Others Seriously Injured—Cave-in Extends Half a Block and is the Worst in the History of Subway Construction.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 23.—One man was killed and a score injured today by a collapse that hurled many tons of earth and rocks into a subway excavation at Fourth avenue and 76th street, Brooklyn. For a time, owing to errors in the police reports, it was feared that the death toll would be much larger.

Ambulances were summoned from the Norwegian, Catholic and Methodist hospitals and a large force of firemen and policemen hurried to the scene to help in the rescue work. In the belief that many had been killed and injured, a large force of physicians and nurses was also called to the scene.

The cave-in extended for half a block and was the worst in the history of subway construction in Greater New York.

story of the subway construction in Greater New York.

Sickening sights attended the rescue. The men who were digging away the debris had to work carefully for fear they might snuff out the life of some workman who had been wounded but not killed outright in the collapse.

The crushing force of the slide tore arms from the sockets of workmen and twisted bodies completely out of shape. The spine of one of the first corpses recovered was warped and broken.

A wagon load of sand was standing upon the superstructure at the time of the accident and fell into the chasm, crushing several workmen who were caught beneath it.

The victims of the accident were at work under the sidewalks on both sides of the street when the structure gave way allowing tons of earth, concrete, bricks, stone and other kinds of building materials to fall.

A huge steam derrick weighing at least ten tons, was carried to the bottom of the excavation where its great weight caused it to sink into the soft earth at the bottom.

The first warning of the disaster was a mighty ripping, crackling noise of breaking timbers. Immediately afterward there was a dull roar as earth, stones and concrete shot downward gathering in momentum. Muffled screams of pain and fright came up from the workmen.

Immediately after the accident an investigation was begun to determine the cause. It is believed that some of the supports of the superstructure were weakened by recent rains.

Police reserves kept back the fast gathering crowds that impeded the work of the rescue squads. Workmen with picks, shovels and crowbars worked with desperate energy in the knowledge that every minute lost might mean another life snuffed out.

The first three dead recovered had been crushed lifeless beneath the steam derrick.

One of the first to reach the scene, he witnessed his services in relief work.

"It was the most horrible experience of my life," said Larkin later. "After the roar of the crash had died away I could hear faint cries coming up through the mass of wreckage from the poor fellows underneath. Some called for help and others shrieked wild prayers. It seemed to me to be a miracle that all were not killed so mighty was the avalanche of debris and so terrific its power. At first I could not believe my ears when the piteous moans sifted up through the wreckage."

Word quickly reached the families of workmen employed on the new subway and disheveled women, many of them bearing children in their arms, rushed to the scene. Hysterical wives and daughters fought with the police to get through the lines.

Within less than an hour more than 300 men were vigorously wielding picks and shovels while they tore savagely at the piled up dirt and timbers to get at the imprisoned bodies.

MRS. WESTINGHOUSE DEAD.

Widow of Famous Inventor Died in Lenox This Morning.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lenox, Mass., June 23.—Mrs. George Westinghouse, widow of the famous electrical inventor, died early today at her home, Erskine Park, after a short illness. Mrs. Westinghouse suffered a stroke of paralysis last week and within 43 hours her condition became so grave that her daughters and son were summoned.

They were at her bedside when she passed away at 6:22 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Westinghouse who was a daughter of Capt. Daniel Lynch, was born at Roxbury, N. Y. She was married in 1867. Her husband died on March 12 of this year. She has been failing since Mr. Westinghouse passed away.

The Westinghouse winter home was in Washington and there for many years Mrs. Westinghouse was a prominent entertainer.

The family residence was the old Blaine home in Dupont Circle, for which Mrs. Westinghouse paid $150,000.

At the bed side when she died were her son George Westinghouse, Jr., his wife, who was the daughter of the late Sir Thomas Brockbank; her sister, Mrs. Paul Wadsworth of Albany; her niece, Mrs. Garrison Holmes of Pittsburgh; Mrs. M. Groff of Albany; Herman Westinghouse of New York, brother of the dead husband and Alexander Updegraff, her secretary.

The funeral will be held in Lenox Thursday. The body will be taken to the Westinghouse tomb in Woodlawn Cemetery, New York. Later her body and her husband's will be taken to the National Cemetery in Arlington, in recognition of his services in the Civil War.

FIRST PHOTOGRAPH OF WEDDING OF COLONEL'S SON IN SPANISH CAPITAL.

Bride of Marshal Roosevelt, son of the former president and her father-in-law, J. K. Willard, the American Ambassador to Spain, leaving for Madrid.

Colonel Roosevelt and other strongholds of the Federalists, in spite of the rainy season, to press on to Mexico City without delay. General Villa has assented to the sending of delegates here upon the one condition that nothing they may do shall stop his march to the capital.

During the past 24 hours the mediators and the Mexican delegates have apparently decided that Villa and Carranza will forget their quarrel until they have disposed of the Huerta government. No further talk of the split in the Constitutionalist camp is heard. Carranza remains the political spokesman for the rebels, and Villa remains an insuperable obstacle to any truce.

Opening of the negotiations between Federalists and Constitutionalists here is expected to begin immediately upon the arrival of Calderon, the latter part of the week. Meanwhile the mediators will go on with their conferences with the American and Mexican delegates upon possible terms of a settlement which will be put before the Carranzistas when the latter are ready to talk. The disposal of the Tampico incident, and the terms under which the American forces will be withdrawn from Vera Cruz are finally to be arranged through mediation, in which the rebels will act indirectly by conference with the American delegates.

VILLA DELAYS ZACATECAS ATTACK

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Canitas, State of Zacatecas, Mex., June 23.—General Villa established his headquarters here today and immediately summoned in conference Generals Benavides, Herrera and Urbina, who are to command various divisions in the main attack on Zacatecas. Desultory fighting between the Constitutionalists and Federalists is still going on north of Zacatecas, but the main assault has been delayed until Villa can throw his entire army against the city.

The Constitutionalists leaders who enlisted under the banner of General Carranza have accepted General Villa as their leader in the Zacatecas campaign without questioning his authority. General Natera, who was selected by Carranza as commander of the central division, has sent word here that he will accept Villa's orders and will come here as soon as possible for a conference.

Natera telegraphed that he would arrive here tonight or tomorrow, a washout south of Fresnillo having delayed his train.

Information received from Natera shows that president Huerta intends to make a desperate struggle at Zacatecas. Federal troops have reinforced General Medina Barron, the Federal commander, until he now has at least 12,000 men under his command. He has also received large consignments of ammunition and a number of cannon.

Heavy fortifications have been thrown up around the city and Villa admits that he is now facing the most difficult task of his career.

"But we will win," he declared today.

"We are going to batter the fortifications with our heavy guns and then hurl 40,000 men against Barron. He cannot stop us. We are going on to Mexico City and there we shall give the murderer of President Madero the punishment that he deserves."

General Herrera, commander of the rebel cavalry, said today that his men were fit for the greatest campaign that they have ever waged. The cavalry probably will take no leading part at Zacatecas but they will be ready to cut off Barron's retreat to Mexico City.

Miss Bishop Will Graduate.

Insurgents Attack Durazzo.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Vienna, June 23.—Insurgents attacked Durazzo, the Albanian capital, today despite an armistice. The rebels are also threatening Valona.

Four Fishermen.

Major Albert Tanner, Vernon D. Lake, George W. Peck and E. Johnston Nichols left town today for Shiel's Hotel at Lackawack, where they will spend several days fishing. All of them are Civil War veterans, and besides holding camp fires and relieving the streams of trout, they will do numerous other things for their own entertainment.

MEDIATORS TAKE A REST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mediation Headquarters, Niagara Falls, Ont., June 23.—Official mediation negotiations have ended—for the present, at least. The envoys of Argentine, Brazil and Chile are ready to give way to simple negotiations of surrender by the Huerta government to the Constitutionalists.

The plan of Minister Naon for settlement of the Mexican problem, as laid before the mediators, and the American and Mexican delegates under strict pledge of secrecy, appears to be one of allowing the two factions in Mexico to settle their own differences by direct parleys. These negotiations are to be held in Niagara Falls, the mediation conference taking a recess while the Federalists and Constitutionalists are so engaged.

This abdication of the official conference which has been in progress for the past five weeks has been made necessary by the refusal of General Carranza to declare an armistice and to consent to the discussion by outsiders of either the provisional government or any other internal problem of the republic. Since the United States has refused to promise to compel the rebels to lay down their arms in case of an agreement here upon a plan of pacification in Mexico, the mediators have thrown up their hands and agreed that the two warring camps must make their own terms.

The face of the mediating governments will be saved by a recess, which will be followed by a session of ratification of any peace which may be concluded by the representatives of the Huerta and Carranza governments.

Reports from Constitutional sources indicate today that the chief rebel spokesman in this peace parley will be Iglesias Calderon, now on his way northward from Saltillo.

The Huerta government will speak through Senors Rabasa, Rodriguez and Elguero, its delegates in the mediation proceedings. They have full plenipotentiary powers from the Mexican congress controlled by Huerta.

Even this direct negotiation between the two sides in the Mexican struggle is expected to be fruitless except insofar as it may arrange terms of surrender of the Huerta government. The rebels, it is reported, are not prepared to surrender.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

A hearing was had before Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court on Monday in the contest over the will of Miss Sarah M. Gray of the town of Marlborough. DeWitt Roosa appeared for the Rev. William L. DeGraff, who is named as executor in the will, and Virgil B. Van Wagoner appeared for nephews and nieces who are contesting the will.

By her will, Miss Gray left $1,000 to church missionary societies and the bulk of her estate to the American Sunday School Union. The nephews and nieces believe it should have been left to them and that their aunt was incompetent to make the will she did make.

For a number of years Miss Gray lived with her brother, Paris Gray, who is a well known resident of High Falls. For two years she was a patient at the Hudson River State Hospital at Poughkeepsie, and later she was removed to the Ulster County Almshouse, at the time that insane patients were cared for there, before the state provided institutions for them. She was discharged from the County Poor House and returned to her old home, where she lived for many years.

One evidence that she was incompetent, in the opinion of Miss Keator, a daughter of Simon R. Keator, who is now teaching school in New York city, was the fact that Miss Gray used to come to her rear piazza wearing less clothing than she would have worn in polite society, and Miss Keator used to entertain her guests by taking them to the front room of her home, which was nearby, and from which an excellent view of Miss Gray in this condition could be obtained.

Mr. Goethius, who married one of the contesting nieces, also considered Miss Gray's acts irrational. She used to eat large quantities of crackers and cheese, and whenever she bought cheese from him she asked him if there was not some way he could cut it without putting his hands on it. She always insisted that the cheese should be wrapped up. When she bought goods from him, and he took the change with the goods to her house, she always told him to "put the change down," and never once held out her hand for it. Nine days before her death she gave him her bank book of the Kingston Savings Bank and a check on that bank for $500, requesting him to get the money and bring it to her. This too, he considered irrational. Occasionally he saw her at the window without much clothing on, shaking out a cloth. Sometimes it was a red cloth and sometimes it was of another color. Mr. Goethius's place of business was near by, his eyesight was good, and he noticed these things.

The matter was adjourned for further hearing until July 7, but in the meantime Mr. Roosa is at liberty to call a witness who expects to leave town shortly for the summer.

Other Matters.

A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the account of Nathaniel Deyo as surviving executor of the estate of John B. Elting of the town of New Paltz and a decree passing and approving the account was granted. J. N. & J. H. Vanderlyn appeared for the executor. A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the account of Sarah B. Reynolds as administratrix de bonis non of the estate of Elizabeth T. Reynolds of this city and a decree passing and approving the account was directed to be prepared. Judge Clearwater appeared for the administratrix.

Practical Fruit Growing and Canning Investment

A close corporation of New York business men whose character and standing will be appreciated on acquaintance, have successfully established a 200 ACRE FRUIT FARM AND CANNING PLANT near Saugerties—selling products DIRECT TO CONSUMERS AND RETAIL STORES in New York City.

The canning plant was put into operation last year and met with prompt success. THIS SEASON'S OUTPUT HAS ALREADY BEEN SOLD IN ADVANCE and there is every indication that the business will grow to large proportions. It is therefore deemed advisable to purchase and plant an adjoining farm and to increase the size of the plant, and to this end the capital has been increased $20,000. A portion of this increase has been subscribed by the present members. For business reasons it is desired to have a number of local people of standing interested in the company and the balance is therefore offered to Ulster County growers and business men at the original price or investment cost per acre, the same as paid by present members, including officers and directors, when the project was started two years ago.

The fruit farm and canning plant are owned and operated as a whole, ownership being represented by shares of stock apportioned in blocks equivalent to 5, 10 and 20 acre interests.

Cost of each 5-acre interest, including planting and care, also pro rata interest in the canning plant, $1,280, payable one-third cash, balance quarterly or semi-annually covering a period of two years.

The investment in no way resembles what is ordinarily known as an orchard-planted-and-cared-for proposition. We are fruit and vegetable growers, shippers and canners—not promoters. The Company has no land for sale.

Over 12,000 apple and pear trees were planted two years ago and are now under scientific horticultural care. 10 acres of currants and 3 acres of strawberries are interplanted between the rows of young trees, and about 70 acres of tomatoes and sweet corn have been put out this year to fill contracts for canned goods.

When the main orchard comes into bearing our fruit will be marketed, attractively packed, direct to retail dealers and large consumers, THROUGH OUR OWN AGENT IN NEW YORK, independent of commission men. In the meantime the Canning Plant will pay better than ordinary interest on the entire investment. THIS YEAR NET EARNINGS SHOULD EXCEED 12% AND SHOULD INCREASE SUBSTANTIALLY EACH YEAR.

For further details, or personal interview by appointment, address J. O. BRUBAKER, Secretary, Saugerties, N. Y.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

A hearing was had before Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court on Monday in the contest over the will of Miss Sarah M. Gray of the town of Marlborough. DeWitt Roosa appeared for the Rev. William L. DeGraff, who is named as executor in the will, and Virgil B. Van Wageningen appeared for nephews and nieces who are contesting the will.

By her will, Miss Gray left $1,000 to church missionary societies and the bulk of her estate to the American Sunday School Union. The nephews and nieces believe it should have been left to them and that their aunt was incompetent to make the will she did make.

For a number of years Miss Gray lived with her brother, Paris Gray, who is a well known resident of High Falls. For two years she was a patient at the Hudson River State Hospital at Poughkeepsie, and later she was removed to the Ulster County Almshouse, at the time that insane patients were cared for there, before the state provided institutions for them. She was discharged from the County Poor House and returned to her old home, where she lived for many years.

One evidence that she was incompetent, in the opinion of Miss Keator, a daughter of Simon R. Keator, who is now teaching school in New York city, was the fact that Miss Gray used to come to her rear piazza wearing less clothing than she would have worn in polite society and Miss Keator used to entertain her guests by taking them to the front room of her home, which was nearby, and from which an excellent view of Miss Gray in this condition could be obtained.

Mr. Goethius, who married one of the contesting nieces, also considered Miss Gray's acts irrational. She used to eat large quantities of crackers and cheese, and whenever she bought cheese from him she asked him if there was not some way he could cut it without putting his hands on it. She always insisted that the cheese should be wrapped up. When she bought goods from him, and he took the change with the goods to her house, she always told him to "put the change down," and never once held out her hand for it. Nine days before her death she gave him her bank book of the Kingston Savings Bank and a check on that bank for $500, requesting him to get the money and bring it to her. This, too, he considered irrational. Occasionally he saw her at the window without much clothing on, shaking out a cloth. Sometimes it was a red cloth and sometimes it was of another color. Mr. Goethius's place of business was near by, his eyesight was good, and he noticed these things.

The matter was adjourned for further hearing until July 7, but in the meantime Mr. Roosa is at liberty to call a witness who expects to leave town shortly for the summer.

Other Matters.

A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the account of Nathaniel Deyo as surviving executor of the estate of John B. Elting of the town of New Paltz and a decree passing and approving the account was granted. N. & J. H. Vanderlyn appeared for the executor.

A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the account of Sarah B. Reynolds as administratrix de bonis non of the estate of Elizabeth T. Reynolds of this city and a decree passing and approving the account was directed to be prepared. Judge Clearwater appeared for the administratrix.

WOMEN'S EXCHANGE AND WHY IT IS

A Call and Some Questions Bring Out Interesting Facts About the Exchange, its Methods and its Reason for Existing.

A reporter for The Freeman dropped in at the Women's Exchange yesterday for an interview with the young lady in charge of that busy and interesting little shop. The variety of articles sold there, all the work of women's hands, was a revelation. In the course of half an hour, customers came in for bread, cake, embroidered bed-linen, canned fruit, babies' garments, butter, a gingham apron, a bottle of hair tonic, candy and eggs. Orders were left for hemming table linen, preserving 20 quarts of strawberries and putting up sandwiches for a picnic.

"You seem to be doing a big business," said the reporter, "what becomes of all the money?" The clerk laughed. "Lots of people ask that. They don't seem to understand that the profits are divided among all the consignors, and that the exchange keeps out so small a percentage that we cannot even cover our expenses." "Isn't that poor management?" asked the reporter. "Oh, dear, no," replied the young lady. "Women's exchanges are never self-supporting. Even the splendid one in Orange, N. J., which is a model exchange, is aided by voluntary contributions from philanthropic women. That one, as well as our own exchange here in Kingston, is run by women who do not have to work for the women who do, and the profits go to the ones who need the money. You see we only keep 10% of each sale, so I have to sell $10 worth of goods to make $1 for the exchange."

"Are the expenses very heavy?" asked the inquisitive interviewer. "Very light," was the answer. "About $60 a month covers everything, rent, heat, light, salaries, paper and string. When you think however, that we would have to sell $600 worth of goods every month to cover expenses, you can see that it is impossible in this tiny shop."

"Well, I should say so," gasped the astonished reporter. "I suppose you can't make half of that." "Indeed we do," said the clerk, as she wrapped up a dozen biscuits in oiled paper for a customer, and nodded to a small boy who brought in a chocolate layer cake and three pies. "Leave them there, Johnny, and tell your mother to send me four dozen fish balls for Friday sure." Then continuing her explanation, "Our yearly report showed over $4,000 taken in from May 1, 1913, to May 1, 1914. This was very gratifying to our managers."

"Who are your managers?" asked the reporter, manifesting a fine persistence in getting at all the facts. The young lady paused to wait on a little girl who wanted a half dozen of advice to an old lady who came in to see if her cookies had sold. To the latter she said "I think there isn't much call for that sort of a cookie. Why don't you bring in the kind you made last week? I could have sold twice as many. If you find a certain article sells, keep making the same thing. That's the way. People will ask for it, and look for your mark." Turning again to her questioner, she continued: "Any woman of Kingston can be a member of the exchange by paying $2 a year and can have a voice in its management. We have fifty representative women who pledge themselves to pay that amount, and a good number of them voluntarily pay more than that to show their interest. This money lifts us out of our financial difficulties in the spring, and then in the fall we usually give a card party or something, which gives us a little help before the winter season. December is really the only month in which we make our expenses."

"How is that?" asked the reporter. "Christmas presents," was the smiling reply. "Drop in here next December and I'll show you the loveliest line of gifts in the city. Things the regular shops can't get hold of."

"You have nice fixtures," and the observing eye of the visitor noted all the convenient arrangements. "All given to us by interested friends. That writing desk, the set of shelves, the glass covers for the cakes and the center table were all presents. One good customer saves all her pennies for me and brings in a handful every week or so. Isn't that splendid? And oh, I do wish somebody would give us an old book case with glass doors. We do need it so!" and she glanced ruefully at a pile of dainty fancy articles which lay exposed to the dust on a table.

"Let me ask you just one more question," said the visitor, rising to give her seat to a tired little woman who brought in a bundle of plain sewing. "What do the managers consider the greatest problem in running the exchange?"

"I'm glad you asked that," said the clerk, "as it is hard to make people understand it."

"The greatest difficulty which the managers contend with is the frequent request to make a memorandum of it and I'll pay you in a day or two." It's only a few cents sometimes and we do hate to be disobliging. But I have to keep books or send out bills, and there is no one to attend to it. You can't extend credit unless you have capital. If a customer owes 30 cents and forgets all about it and I have to make out a bill and mail it to her twice, I must sell four loaves of bread to pay for the two postage stamps. See? You would scarcely believe that just to be obliging I had over $40 charged up on memoranda slips during the month of May, and when that fact was brought out at the last monthly meeting, you may believe it gave rise to some hard and fast rules. I'm under orders now, believe me. Mrs. Hetty Green couldn't charge up a ginger snap."

The reporter laughed and thanked the busy young woman for her patient explanations. Then taking up a cookie she asked, "May I have this before I go?"

"Certainly," was the reply, "if you have two cents with you, otherwise, I'm sorry."

The visitor paid cash and departed.

VIADUCT COMMISSION.

First Meeting Held and a Number of Claims Filed.

The first meeting of the Kingston Viaduct Commission, composed of J. Deput Hasbrouck, chairman; John S. Thompson and H. Duffy was held Monday afternoon at the court house and nearly all property owners were represented. Howard Chipp represented the claims of Mary Noone, A. J. Tindale, Mary Fitzgerald, and Nora Coyle; Judge Betts represents Edward Cunningham, Joseph Moser, Jr., A. W. Van Aken, Frederick Luthie, Mary A. Sheeley, Anna E. Carroll, Jessie Dunham, Mary Van Aken, and Abraham Van Aken. Judge O'Reilly appeared for Ellen R. Murphy, Leo Bartley, John J. Lane and wife, James Martin and wife and William Martin. Charles Walton for George Hutton, Lester Hutton, Robert Hutton, Elenor H. Washburn, Matilda H. Cordts and as the executor of the last will and testament of John N. Cordts. Virgil Van Wagoner appeared for John C. Oliver; Judge Jenkins for T. B. Ryan and wife; Van Etten and Cook for Albert H. Cook and wife and Clara Niedergergesasse; Harry Flemming for the Ulster and Delaware Railroad; Philip Elting for the Ontario & Western Railroad, and William D. Brinnier, as corporation counsel for the city.

Judge O'Reilly said that four claims had been agreed upon between the former corporation counsel, who was also the attorney for the railroads and the claimants, which were approved by the common council these agreements being in writing, and asked that a day be set for the commission to make the awards as agreed.

Mr. Brinnier said he would not object to these awards, as it was beyond his power to do so, if it were understood that no costs were to be allowed in the cases that were settled. This was agreed upon and Friday at 10 o'clock was set. The claims agreed on were John Lane for $3,100, E. Fitzgerald for $3,700, Albert H. Cook for $1,250 and John C. Oliver for $575.

The commission asked that as many claims as possible be filed by Friday to which time an adjournment was taken.

How to Become a Nagging Wife.

In the July American Magazine a man who has been married for twenty-five years contributes "A Husband's Story," in which he describes, as follows, a period in which his wife nagged him.

"In her nervous condition she commenced to take extreme dislike to my friends and to demand that I give them up. I had made friends in the city, many of whom I enjoyed, who broadened my views and gave me ideas that were useful. During that period, if I mentioned the fact, one of my friends, my wife instantly was provoked against that person. As a result I ceased to have friends; to our apartment, but many of them asked us to attend little affairs. Several times I had half accepted such invitations, and when my wife refused to go I was compelled to withdraw the acceptance. Soon we found ourselves cut off from any social intercourse and closer and closer drawn within our own circle—which consisted of four persons, including the cook. All the while my wife maintained that I was out 'having a good time' at my work, while she had to remain at home with the baby."

"To avoid wrangling I assumed an apologetic manner, pretending to admit a degree of guilt instead of contradicting her. I strove to calm and soothe her by admitting that she was in the right, even when she was most wrong. This proved perhaps my most serious blunder. One friend, a doctor specializing in nervous troubles, seriously advised me to rebuke her sharply and to make her understand. I dread giving her the pain I knew such a course would cause. It would have been better to do it then, for she began to consider me weak because I yielded to her, and to take advantage of this supposed, or perhaps real, weakness. So the habit of complaining and of adopting an accusing manner toward me grew upon her unconsciously."

"I always could divert the argument by reverting to two subjects; the baby and the home we were to have. We always agreed upon these things. I did not realize then that they were the only two things in which she really was interested, and that the proper way to have averted most of the trouble was to get her interested in more things. She was rebelling, unconsciously against the narrowness of her life, and resented my broader life in business."

WOMEN'S EXCHANGE AND WHY IT IS

A Call and Some Questions Bring Out Interesting Facts About the Exchange, its Methods and its Reason for Existing.

A reporter for The Freeman dropped in at the Women's Exchange yesterday for an interview with the young lady in charge of that busy and interesting little shop. The variety of articles sold there, all the work of women's hands, was a revelation. In the course of half an hour, customers came in for bread, cake, embroidered bed-linen, canned fruit, babies' garments, butter, a gingham apron, a bottle of hair tonic, candy and eggs. Orders were left for hemming table linen, preserving 20 quarts of strawberries and putting up sandwiches for a picnic.

"You seem to be doing a big business," said the reporter, "what becomes of all the money?" The clerk laughed. "Lots of people ask that. They don't seem to understand that the profits are divided among all the consignors, and that the exchange keeps out so small a percentage that we cannot even cover our expenses." "Isn't that poor management?" asked the reporter. "Oh, dear, no," replied the young lady. "Women's exchanges are never self-supporting. Even the splendid one in Orange, N. J., which is a model exchange, is aided by voluntary contributions from philanthropic women. That one, as well as our own exchange here in Kingston, is run by women who do not have to work for the women who do, and the profits go to the ones who need the money. You see we only keep 10% of each sale, so I have to sell $10 worth of goods to make $1 for the exchange."

"Are the expenses very heavy?" asked the inquisitive interviewer. "Very light," was the answer. "About $60 a month covers everything, rent, heat, light, salaries, paper and string. When you think however, that we would have to sell $600 worth of goods every month to cover expenses, you can see that it is impossible in this tiny shop."

"Well, I should say so," gasped the astonished reporter. "I suppose you can't make half of that." "Indeed we do," said the clerk, as she wrapped up a dozen biscuits in oiled paper for a customer, and nodded to a small boy who brought in a chocolate layer cake and three pies. "Leave them there, Johnny, and tell your mother to send me four dozen fish balls for Friday sure." Then continuing her explanation, "Our yearly report showed over $4,000 taken in from May 1, 1913, to May 1, 1914. This was very gratifying to our managers."

"Who are your managers?" asked the reporter, manifesting a fine persistence in getting at all the facts. The young lady paused to wait on a little girl who wanted a half dozen oranges, and to speak a few words of advice to an old lady who came in to see if her cookies had sold. To the latter she said "I think there isn't much call for that sort of a cookie. Why don't you bring in the kind you made last week? I could have sold twice as many. If you find a certain kind sells, keep making the same thing. That's the way. People will ask for it, and look for your mark." Turning again to her questioner, she continued: "Any woman of Kingston can be a member of the exchange by paying $2 a year and can have a voice in its management. We have fifty representative women who pledge themselves to pay that amount, and a good number of them voluntarily pay more than that to show their interest. This money lifts us out of our financial difficulties in spring, and then in the fall we usually give a card party or something, which gives us a little help before the winter season. December is really the only month in which we make our expenses."

"How is that?" asked the reporter. "Christmas presents," was the smiling reply. "Drop in here next December and I'll show you the loveliest line of gifts in the city. Think the regular shops can't get hold of."

"You have nice fixtures," and the observing eye of the visitor noted all the convenient arrangements. "All given to us by interested friends. That writing desk, the set of shelves, the glass covers for the cakes and the center table were all presents. One good customer saves all her pennies for me and brings in a handful every week or so. Isn't that splendid? And oh, I do wish somebody would give us an old book case with glass doors. We do need it so!" and she glanced ruefully at a pile of dainty fancy articles which lay exposed to the dust on a table.

"Let me ask you just one more question," said the visitor, rising to give her seat to a tired little woman who brought in a bundle of plain sewing. "What do the managers consider the greatest problem in running the exchange?"

"I'm glad you asked that," said the clerk, "as it is hard to make people understand it."

"The greatest difficulty which the managers contend with is the frequent request to 'make a memorandum of it and I'll pay you in a day or two.' It's only a few cents sometimes and we do hate to be disobliging, but I have no time to keep books or send out bills, and there is no one to attend to it. You can't extend credit unless you have capital. If a customer owes 30 cents and forgets all about it and I have to make out a bill and mail it to her twice, I must sell four loaves of bread to pay for the two postage stamps. See? You would scarcely over $40 charged up on memorandum slips during the month of May, and when that fact was brought out at the last monthly meeting, you may believe it gave rise to some hard and fast rules. The reporter laughed and thanked the busy young woman for her patient explanations. Then taking up a cookie she asked, "May I have this before I go?"

"Certainly," was the reply, "if you have two cents with you, otherwise, I'm sorry."

The visitor paid cash and departed.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 23, 1914.

The reduction by our local savings banks of the rate of interest on deposits was dictated by sound principles. Under a new law these institutions are required to accumulate a guarantee fund equal to 15 per cent of the total deposits. This will obviously make the banks much stronger than they are now, and it would not be good business to offset this protective plan by paying out more interest than conditions warrant. Savings institutions are not speculative in nature. "Safety first" is their motto when properly managed. If the action of the trustees of our Kingston banks could be submitted to a vote of the depositors it would doubtless be approved unanimously.

The United States Supreme Court has branded as unconstitutional the Kentucky statute making it legal for farmers to pool their tobacco. The State courts held that such combinations are legal if they do not enhance or depress prices above or below real values, but the Supreme Court says that there is no way of determining what "real values" are. This may foreshadow the fate of the anti-trust bill if it is enacted with the provision that organizations of farmers and workmen shall be exempt from its operation. It is considered a smart trick to make political capital with the "peepul" by passing unconstitutional bills. Conscientious judges have to annul these measures in pursuance of the obligation of their official oaths, and then the demagogues yell for the recall of judicial decisions by popular vote. It is a condition of affairs not encouraging to lovers of liberty.

President Vanderbilt of the National City Bank of New York uttered the sentiment of most thoughtful business men when he told the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce Monday night that the best thing Congress could do would be to adjourn for three months and so give itself time for clear thinking upon the proposed measures for the regulation of business. Other prominent men have expressed the opinion that mischief is bound to be done anyway, and that it will be better to have it over with as soon as possible. Mr. Vanderbilt holds the view that the issue may possibly be disposed of without injuring legitimate business. President Wilson and his puppets have an insane desire to enact some law right away. If they succeed, the present commercial depression is sure to become much worse. A few months of suspense is preferable to years of certain trouble.

Whoever reads the reports of the meetings of our health authorities is bound to be impressed by the fact that they act like helpless children. They sit around and prattle and wonder instead of acting. It is intolerable that this sort of thing should continue. All other municipal questions fade into insignificance in comparison with the protection of the public from disease, yet this biggest matter of all seems to have been put in the weakest hands. When we get our new charter it will doubtless make adequate and unambiguous provision for enforcing quarantine regulations, but in the meantime the persons to blame for existing conditions ought to have charges preferred against them and be turned out of office. Mayor Canfield would find the people behind him in such a policy. It is only a minority of our residents who believe that infected individuals should be permitted to wander around the town.

Foreign manufacturers were a little slow at first in taking advantage of our new tariff, but they have gained in energy right along. The Philadelphia Ledger has taken the pains to compile statistics regarding the imports of twenty leading articles, making monthly comparisons with the same periods in the preceding year. The increases were as follows: December, 54 per cent; January, 58 per cent; February, 64 per cent; March, 71 per cent; April, 129 per cent. The figures for May are not yet available, but there is no reason to believe that they will show any decline in the movement of imports. Times are hard, whether for "psychologists" or other reasons, and people are certainly not buying more freely than they did last year. Therefore, it must be the fact that foreign labor is supplying our wants to an increasing extent, while American laborers are being thrown out of employment. There is absolutely no other theory which will explain the facts. Meanwhile, goods are no cheaper to the consumer. If a general election were to be held tomorrow, the country would go Republican about three to one, and we doubt that the result will be materially different next November.

CLASS DAY AT ULSTER.

Exercises Monday Evening Entertained a Large Audience of Friends.

The class day exercises of the Class of 1914 were held on Monday evening in Assembly Hall in Ulster Academy and long before the exercises started every seat in the large hall was taken. The program, which was exceptionally fine, was opened with a selection by the orchestra and the appearance of the "best looking" class in the history of the school who marched in and took their seats on the platform, after singing the greeting song which was written by Miss Mary W. Daly and set to a light and lively melody. The words were very clever and the rhyme exceedingly good. In a brief address of welcome, Frank Finley, the president of the class, expressed the hope that the program that had been prepared would please. He then introduced Miss Loretta Sudheimer who gave the Ulster Alphabet, a set of clever verses hitting off the various members of the class in a good natured way that brought down the house.

Miss Gertrude Whalen then gave the class history from the time the members entered the school, showing the shrinking of the school to its present moment of triumphs of the class and what it had sought to do for Old Ulster and of the love of the class would always have for its alma mater.

The class poem was written by William S. Bush and read by Elmer J. Johnston and not only was the rhythm good but the verses were witty.

Harry Miller delivered a fine oration on the type of man the people of the United States demanded for president in 1916. His theme was well wrought out and showed careful preparation.

After a piano solo by Miss Kathryn Bestle a very humorous monologue of the trials of a lady in securing a pair of shoes in a shoe store was given in a side splitting manner by Miss Margaret Healey.

After singing by the class the little one act farce "The Fortunes of War" was given by some of the members of the class. The theme of the playlet was the meeting of the members of the Tan Phi Gamma Secret Society who were expecting a call from a Mrs. Rand a famous secret society woman who they hoped would give them some ideas on forming a real secret order. Mrs. Rand called and on her call hinged the plot of the play for Mrs. Rand turned out to be Jack, a member of Alpha Beta, the secret order formed by the boys. The character of Jack was taken by Walter Riggins and he was "a scream." He was finally unmasked and to purchase his freedom had to buy the girls seventeen pounds of candy and solemnly promise not to give away the secrets of the order. The girls were the Misses Margaret M. McNelis, Gertrude Netter, Sadie Rush, Helen A. Snyder, Florence A. Lapine, Helen A. Stephan, Mayme Gumaer and Evelyn Fletcher. All of the cast took their parts in a very clever manner and the little play made a big hit.

After a pleasing vocal solo by Miss Margaret M. McNelis the class prophecy was given by Miss Kathryn Bestle and her prophecy of the future greatness of her classmates was very amusing and clever. She said she was walking down the street in Charleston, South Carolina, when she saw a moving picture show advertised and she went in and found that pictures of dear old Kingston were being shown and then as she sat there the pictures of various famous men and women were thrown on the screen and she easily recognized her old classmates of the class of '14.

The class legacy was given by Miss Ellen Smith and her gifts to her class mates and her witty remarks concerning the reason for the gifts was heartily applauded.

Harold E. Robinson delivered the mantle oration which was responded to by Ross K. Osterhout representing the class of 1915. The advice of Mr. Robinson to the class of '15 and the response of Mr. Osterhout were exceptionally good and were applauded.

In behalf of the class of '14 John P. Reading then presented the school with a very handsome picture and the gift was accepted in a few brief words of thanks by Professor Bridgman the principal of Ulster Academy.

The exercises were brought to a close with the class song written by Loretta A. Walton. The exercises this year reflect great credit on the ability of the members of '14.

The officers of the class are: President, Frank Finley; vice-president, Ellen Smith; secretary, Helen A. Stephan; treasurer, Harold E. Robinson. The class motto is "Labor Omnia Vincit."—Labor Conquers All Things. The colors are ecru and crimson and the class flower is the American Beauty.

NEITHER CLEARED NOR IMPEACHED

House Judiciary Committee's Report on Charges Against Judge Spear Expresses Regret That It Can Neither Exculpate Nor Impeach.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 23.—Finding the evidence insufficient to impeach but severely criticizing the jurist on a number of official acts, the special subcommittee of the House Judiciary named to investigate charges against Judge Emory Spear, of the Southern District of Georgia, made its report today.

The majority report is signed by Representatives Webb of North Carolina, and Fitz Henry, of Illinois, Democrats. Representatives Volstead of Minnesota, Republican, filed an individual report exonerating the Georgia Judge and objecting to many of the criticisms made by Webb and Fitz Henry.

"The subcommittee regrets its inability to recommend either a complete acquittal of Judge Spear or its culpability so far as these charges are concerned, on the one hand, or an impeachment on the other," says the majority report. "We are persuaded that the competent legal evidence at hand is not sufficient to procure a conviction at the hands of the Senate. But the subcommittee does feel that the record presents a series of legal oppressions and shows an abuse of judicial discretion which, though falling short of impeachable offenses, demand condemnation and criticism."

"If Judge Spear's judicial acts in the future are marked by the rigorous and inflexible harshness shown by this record, these charges hang as a poisonous cloud over his court, impairing his usefulness, impeding the administration of justice and endangering the integrity of American institutions."

Notwithstanding disapproval of many of Judge Spear's acts, the majority of the subcommittee recommends "that no further proceedings be had with reference to H Resolution No. 234."

The report was made to the full Judiciary Committee and its adoption by the committee and the House will end the impeachment case. The Webb-Fitz Henry report is a document of nearly 100,000 words and reviews fully the volumes of testimony taken in Georgia on the charges brought against Judge Spear of favoritism, unfair decisions, improper issuance of injunctions, arbitrariness, the use of drugs, temperamental unfitness, etc.

The investigating committee finds that "there has been an utter lack of harmony between the judge and the bar of the district, as well as the people." "There has been an absolute want of effort on the part of the court to make the people of that district feel that the Federal court was the bulwark of their liberties, but rather a disposition has been evident on the part of the judge to punish those who were unfortunate enough to be brought into his court on civil as well as criminal matters."

"An examination of the record in this case is suggestive of the fact that early in his judicial career Judge Spear ascertained the limit to which he could go before liability to impeachment for official conduct would accrue and went as close to the line upon many occasions as safety would permit."

In a summary of Judge Spear's court methods the report says that Judge Spear has used with tremendous effect upon juries the right to sum up the facts in a case. "It was rare, indeed, that a jury was permitted to return a verdict contrary to his wishes, regardless of the facts," says the report, referring to Spear as a man of "literary attainments, oratorical ability and keen intellect."

The committee says that it seems incredible that the famous Huff case, involving a large Georgia estate, should have been permitted to drag along for so many years in Spear's court.

That Judge Spear has allowed his friends liberal fees in bankruptcy cases, the report says, cannot be questioned. However, the report says, charges have not been sustained that Judge Spear was guilty of unlawful and corrupt conduct in cases wherein his son-in-law had a contingent fee.

The report also says that the following charges have not been sustained to the extent that they should be made articles of impeachment: That he has abused his official power by using court officials as private servants.

That he was guilty of oppressive and corrupt conduct in allowing the dissipation of the assets of bankrupt estates. The committee says, however, that the dissipation of estates in certain cases has been "deplorable."

That there have been corrupt abuses of orders in appointing receivers without notice or just cause. It is stated that the circuit court of appeals has found it necessary to criticize Judge Spear for reckless issuance of injunctions.

The majority report sets out that other charges declared unsustained to the extent of justifying impeachment include:

That Judge Spear used drugs excessively. The evidence on this point is declared quite insufficient.

That he used court funds for personal uses.

That he has disregarded mandates of the court of appeals.

That he has allowed improper court costs, although it is stated he has been more or less indiscreet in matters of this character.

That he was guilty of unlawful and oppressive conduct for private ends.

That he unlawfully seized and sold property.

The committee also declares not sustained the charge that he attempted to bribe officers appointed to act as custodians.

The majority of the subcommittee in its conclusions, however, says: "The record details a large number of official acts on the part of Judge Spear which are in themselves legal, yet, when taken together, develop into a system tending to approach a condition of tyranny and oppression. There has been an inequitable exercise of judicial discretion, many instances of which have been frequently criticized where the cases in which they were committed have been reviewed by the courts of appeal, while in others litigants were unable, financially, to prosecute appeals."

"That the power of the court has been exercised in a despotic and autocratic manner by the judge cannot be questioned."

The Night Editor's Blunder.

In the July American Magazine Richard Spurgeon, a newspaper man, writes a fiction story entitled "Through Hurricane and Flood," which contains a thrilling description of the Galveston disaster where dozens of lives were lost. At the end of the story he tells about Spurgeon, a reporter who went through the catastrophe and after a fearful struggle got to a telegraph wire prepared to tell the first story of the flood. At the beginning of the following extract from the story Spurgeon is at the wire talking with the night editor of a great northern newspaper:

"This is Spurgeon from Galveston," he said. "I am just in. The city is in ruins. Thousands are dead. One of the most awful tragedies in the history of the world has occurred. I have the story as well as man can have it at this time. I will send the story out of my head and I will keep going as long as you can take it, or as long as I can send."

"One minute," said the operator, "the night editor is out for breakfast. I will have to send for him."

"I will start up while you are sending for him," said Spurgeon.

"No," said the operator, "wait until he comes in."

"Fifteen minutes, ten minutes, fifteen minutes passed before the night editor returned. Then the operator said to Spurgeon: 'He says the paper has gone to press. Be ready with a good story by 7 o'clock.'"

"Spurgeon was aghast. Then furiously he asked: 'Did you tell him I am just in from Galveston; that the city is destroyed; that thousands of people are dead there?'"

"The operator said, 'Yes, I have told him all that, and he says the paper is run off now and it is too late. He will take the story to-night.'"

"Spurgeon argued, pleaded, raged. He told the operator to tell the night editor a newspaper had never gone to press when such a story as this 'broke.' He couldn't print enough papers to satisfy the demand this story would create. It was a 'beat,' the beat of the century. Back came the answer: 'No; it is too late. He will take it tonight.'"

To have such a story spurned after all the horrors of that night was too much for Spurgeon. He began sending bulletins to newspapers far and wide. He sent these bulletins as far east as Boston, as far west as San Francisco, as far north as St. Paul, and as far south as New Orleans. He played no favorites. He had about thirty minutes' sleep. Then there came a pounding on his door. It was a telegram. And more.

The proprietor of a great newspaper in New York telegraphed that he wanted Spurgeon's exclusive services at his own price. Other papers eager to get the details of the great tragedy begged him to send stuff.

"The next day he had a thousand telegrams or more. Among them was one from the editor-in-chief of his northern paper, saying he understood Spurgeon had reached Houston at 3 a. m. In ample time to give the story to his paper; he had chosen to hold it for the Associated Press afternoon papers. The editor did not think Spurgeon had treated the paper fairly and unless he could explain his conduct satisfactorily, the paper wanted nothing more from him."

"A year or so ago, Spurgeon met the great editor. They chatted for a long time, and then when the story to his paper, he had chosen to hold it for the Associated Press afternoon papers. The editor did not think Spurgeon had treated the paper fairly and unless he could explain his conduct satisfactorily, the paper wanted nothing more from him."

"Yes, I know," said the veteran; "you want to know what I said to that night editor."

"Spurgeon nodded. There was wrath in the voice of the old man as he answered. 'I do not know. I never have been able to recall what I said, but he went out of this office and, and—he never returned.'"

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 23, 1914.

The reduction by our local savings banks of the rate of interest on deposits was dictated by sound principles. Under a new law these institutions are required to accumulate a guarantee fund equal to 15 per cent of the total deposits. This will obviously make the banks much stronger than they are now, and it would not be good business to offset this protective plan by paying out more interest than conditions warrant. Savings institutions are not speculative in nature. "Safety first" is their motto when properly managed. If the action of the trustees of our Kingston banks could be submitted to a vote of the depositors it would doubtless be approved unanimously.

The United States Supreme Court has branded as unconstitutional the Kentucky statute making it legal for farmers to pool their tobacco. The State courts held that such combinations are legal if they do not enhance or depress prices above or below real values, but the Supreme Court says that there is no way of determining what "real values" are. This may foreshadow the fate of the anti-trust bill if it is enacted with the provision that organizations of farmers and workmen shall be exempt from its operation. It is considered a smart trick to make political capital with the "peepul" by passing unconstitutional bills. Conscientious judges have to annul these measures in pursuance of the obligation of their official oaths, and then the demagogues yell for the recall of judicial decisions by popular vote. It is a condition of affairs not encouraging to lovers of liberty.

President Vanderbilt of the National City Bank of New York uttered the sentiment of most thoughtful business men when he told the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce Monday night that the best thing Congress could do would be to adjourn for three months and so give itself time for clear thinking upon the proposed measures for the regulation of business. Other prominent men have expressed the opinion that mischief is bound to be done anyway, and that it will be better to have it over with as soon as possible. Mr. Vanderbilt holds the view that the issue may possibly be disposed of without injuring legitimate business. President Wilson and his puppets have an insane desire to enact some law right away. If they succeed, the present commercial depression is sure to become much worse. A few months of suspense is preferable to years of certain trouble.

Whoever reads the reports of the meetings of our health authorities is bound to be impressed by the fact that they act like helpless children. They sit around and prattle and wonder instead of acting. It is intolerable that this sort of thing should continue. All other municipal questions fade into insignificance in comparison with the protection of the public from disease, yet this biggest matter of all seems to have been put in the weakest hands. When we get our new charter it will doubtless make adequate and unambiguous provision for enforcing quarantine regulations, but in the meantime the persons to blame for existing conditions ought to have charges preferred against them and be turned out of office. Mayor Canfield would find the people behind him in such a policy. It is only a minority of our residents who believe that infected individuals should be permitted to wander around the town.

Foreign manufacturers were a little slow at first in taking advantage of our new tariff, but they have gained in energy right along. The Philadelphia Ledger has taken the pains to compile statistics regarding the imports of twenty leading articles, making monthly comparisons with the same periods in the preceding year. The increases were as follows: December, 54 per cent; January, 58 per cent; February, 64 per cent; March, 71 per cent; April, 129 per cent. The figures for May are not yet available, but there is no reason to believe that they will show any decline in the movement of imports. Times are hard, whether for "psychological" or other reasons, and people are certainly not buying more freely than they did last year. Therefore, it must be the fact that foreign labor is supplying our wants to an increasing extent, while American laborers are being thrown out of employment. There is absolutely no other theory which will explain the facts. Meanwhile, goods are no cheaper to the consumer. If a general election were to be held tomorrow, the country would go Republican about three to one, and we doubt that the result will be materially different next November.

NEITHER CLEARED NOR IMPEACHED

House Judiciary Committee's Report on Charges Against Judge Speer Expresses Regret That It Can Neither Exculpate Nor Impeach.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 23.—Finding the evidence insufficient to impeach but severely criticizing the jurist on a number of official acts, the special subcommittee of the House Judiciary named to investigate charges against Judge Emory Speer, of the Southern District of Georgia, made its report today.

The majority report is signed by Representatives Webb of North Carolina, and Fitz Henry, of Illinois, Democrats. Representative Volstead of Minnesota, Republican, filed an individual report exonerating the Georgia Judge and objecting to many of the criticisms made by Webb and Fitz Henry.

The subcommittee regrets its inability to recommend either a complete acquittal of Judge Speer of all culpability so far as these charges are concerned, on the one hand, or an impeachment on the other, says the majority report. "We are persuaded that the competent legal evidence at hand is not sufficient to procure a conviction at the hands of the Senate. But the subcommittee does feel that the record presents a series of legal oppressions and shows an abuse of judicial discretion which, though falling short of impeachable offenses, demand condemnation and criticism."

"If Judge Speer's judicial acts in the future are marked by the rigor and inflexible harshness shown by this record, these charges hang as a portentous cloud over his court, impairing his usefulness, impeding the administration of justice and endangering the integrity of American institutions."

Notwithstanding disapproval of many of Judge Speer's acts, the majority of the subcommittee recommends "that no further proceedings be had with reference to H. Resolution No. 234."

The report was made to the full Judiciary Committee and its adoption by the committee and the House will end the impeachment case. The Webb-Fitz Henry report is a document of nearly 100,000 words and reviews fully the volumes of testimony taken in Georgia on the charges brought against Judge Speer of favoritism, unfair decisions, improper issuance of injunctions, arbitrariness, the use of drugs, temperamental unfitness, etc.

The investigating committee finds that "there has been an utter lack of harmony between the judge and the bar of the district, as well as the people." "There has been an absolute want of effort on the part of the court to make the people of that district feel that the Federal court was the bulwark of their liberties, but rather a disposition has been evident on the part of the judge to punish those who were unfortunate enough to be brought into his court on civil as well as criminal matters."

An examination of the record in this case is suggestive of the fact that early in his judicial career Judge Speer ascertained the limit to which he could go before liability to impeachment for official conduct would accrue and went as close to the line upon many occasions as safety would permit."

In a summary of Judge Speer's court methods the report says that "the effect upon jurists with tremendous effect upon jurists the right to sum of the facts in a case. "It was rare, indeed, that a jury was permitted to return a verdict contrary to his wishes, regardless of the facts," says the report, referring to Speer as a man of "literary attainments, oratorical ability and keen intellect."

The committee says that it seems incredible that the famous Huff case, involving a large Georgia estate, should have been permitted to drag along for so many years in Speer's court.

That Judge Speer has allowed his friends liberal fees in bankruptcy cases, the report says, cannot be questioned. However, the report says, charges have not been sustained that Judge Speer was guilty of unlawful and corrupt conduct in cases wherein his son-in-law had a contingent fee.

The report also says that the following charges have not been sustained to the extent that they should be made articles of impeachment: That he has abused his official power by using court officials as private servants.

That he was guilty of oppressive and corrupt conduct in allowing the dissipation of the assets of bankrupt estates. The committee says, however, that the dissipation of estates in certain cases has been "deplorable."

That there have been corrupt abuses of orders in appointing receivers without notice or just cause. It is stated that the circuit court of appeals has found it necessary to criticize Judge Speer for reckless issuance of injunctions.

The majority report sets out that other charges cleared unsustained to the extent of justifying impeachment include:

That Judge Speer used drugs excessively. The evidence on this point is declared quite insufficient.

That he used court funds for personal uses.

That he has disregarded mandates of the court of appeals.

That he has allowed improper court costs, although it is stated he has been more or less indiscreet in matters of this character.

That he was guilty of unlawful and oppressive conduct for private ends.

That he unlawfully seized and sold property.

The committee also declares not sustained the charge that he attempted to bribe officers appointed to act as custodians.

The majority of the subcommittee in its conclusions, however, says: "The record details a large number of official acts on the part of Judge Speer which are in themselves legal, yet, when taken together, develop into a system tending to approach a condition of tyranny and oppression. There has been an inequitable exercise of judicial discretion, many instances of which have been frequently criticized where the cases in which they were committed have been reviewed by the courts of appeal, while in others litigants were unable, financially, to prosecute appeals."

"That the power of the court has been exercised in a despotic and autocratic manner by the judge cannot be questioned."

The Night Editor's Blunder.

In the July American Magazine Richard Spurgeon, a newspaper man, writes a fiction story entitled "Through Hurricane and Flood," which contains a thrilling description of the Galveston disaster where dozens of lives were lost. At the end of the story he tells about Spurgeon, a reporter who went through the catastrophe and after a fearful struggle got to a telegraph wire prepared to tell the first story of the flood. At the beginning of the following extract from the story Spurgeon is at the wire talking with the night editor of a great northern newspaper:

"This is Spurgeon from Galveston," he said. "I am just in. The city is in ruins. Thousands are dead. One of the most awful tragedies in the history of the world has occurred. I have the story as well as man can have it at this time. I will send the story out of my head and I will keep going as long as you can take it, or as long as I can send."

"One minute," said the operator. "The night editor is out for breakfast. I will have to send for him."

"No," said the operator, "wait until he comes in."

"Five minutes, ten minutes, fifteen minutes passed before the night editor returned. Then the operator said to Spurgeon: 'He says the paper has gone to press. Be ready with a good story tomorrow.'"

"Spurgeon was silent. Then he said: 'I am just in from Galveston; the city is destroyed; that thousands of people are dead there?'"

"The operator said, 'Yes, I have told him all that, and he says the paper is run off now and it is too late. He will take the story tonight.'"

"Spurgeon argued, pleaded, raged. He told the operator to tell the night editor a newspaper had never gone to press when such a story as this 'broke.' He couldn't print enough papers to satisfy the demand this story would create. It was a 'beat,' the best of the century. Back came the answer: 'No; it is too late. He will take it tonight.'"

To have such a story spurned after the horrors of that night was too much for Spurgeon. He began sending bulletins to newspapers far and wide. He sent these bulletins as far east as Boston, as far west as San Francisco, as far north as St. Paul, and as far south as New Orleans. He played no favorites. He had about thirty minutes' sleep. Then there came a pounding on his door. It was a telegram. And more telegrams, and more.

The proprietor of a great newspaper in New York telegraphed that he wanted Spurgeon's exclusive services at his own price. Other papers eager to get the details of the great tragedy begged him to send stuff.

"The next day he had a thousand telegrams or more. Among them was one from the editor-in-chief of his northern paper, saying he understood Spurgeon had reached Houston at 3 a. m., in ample time to give the story to his paper; he had chosen to hold it for the Associated Press afternoon papers. The editor did not think Spurgeon had treated the paper fairly and unless he could explain his conduct satisfactorily, the paper wanted nothing more from him."

"A year or so ago, Spurgeon met the great editor. They chatted for a long time, and then, when the Galveston man was about to go he said, 'There's a question I have been wanting to ask you for many years.' 'Yes, I know,' said the veteran; 'you want to know what I said to that night editor.'"

"Spurgeon nodded. There was wrath in the voice of the old man as he answered. 'I do not know. I never have been able to recall what I said, but he went out of this office and, and—he never returned.'"

The Unhitched Horse

Here is a quotation from an advertising magazine that is well worth remembering:

The average man looks on advertising as a mysterious something quite apart from ordinary business, says an observant exchange. You bet he does, and that's right where he makes his first big mistake. Advertising is not something apart from the business, save as the horse is separate from the cart—when unhitched the cart is at a standstill.

When they come to choosing the right horse merchants and manufacturers find that newspaper advertising is the most active steed in the stable and costs less for upkeep.

SAVINGS BANKS REDUCE INTEREST

Legislation passed within the past year which requires savings banks to retain annually five per cent of their net earnings for a guarantee fund for the benefit of depositors, has resulted in a reduction of the rate of interest paid by most of the savings banks throughout the state, including the three savings banks in this city, which have reduced their rate of interest from four per cent to three and one-half per cent per annum.

The four per cent per annum rate of interest has been in force in Kingston for the past six years, and that has been the prevailing rate in most of the savings banks of the state. The four per cent rate went into effect in Kingston after the panic of 1907 had subsided, and has been in effect up to and including the dividends that were declared for the six months ending December 31 last. Interest at the rate of 3 1/2 per cent per annum has been declared payable July first by the Ulster County Savings Institution, Rondout Savings Bank and Kingston Savings Bank.

For the past five or six years nearly all the savings banks in the state have paid four per cent interest, but have now returned to their former rate of 3 1/2 per cent.

The law now in effect, which was passed by the last legislature, provides that saving banks must retain five per cent of their net earnings for the benefit of depositors. After the first year the amount to be retained as a guarantee fund is to be increased until the fund amounts to ten per cent.

Savings banks in New York state rarely get six per cent for the use of money as they did in years gone by. For a number of years the prevailing rate has been five per cent and 5 1/2 per cent. That is the interest obtained on first mortgage, and the banks are not allowed to loan for more than fifty per cent of the value of the property on which the loan is procured. Although the interest rate by savings banks for money loaned on mortgage is expressed as either 5 or 5 1/2 per cent, the actual effect is to make loans at 5 per cent. There is a mortgage recording tax of one-half of one per cent on all mortgages, and in effect where the 5 1/2 per cent rate is charged, the bank pays the tax, and where the five per cent rate is charged, the person making the loan pays the tax. This explains the difference in interest rates. In any event the bank receives five per cent and one-half of one per cent is paid to the county clerk at the time the mortgage is recorded, the mortgage tax money divided afterwards between the state and the county.

RAND LOSES AGAIN.

County Court Upholds Conviction for Assault on Old Mr. Youngs.

Judge Jenkins has handed down a decision in the case of The People, respondent, against Nathaniel D. Rand, appellant, which was argued before him recently at county court chambers. Rand who lives at West Camp, was convicted before Police Justice Benjamin M. Coon of Saugerties of assault in the third degree, committed on Edward F. Youngs, an old man who went to Rand's house to get him to acknowledge a paper as notary public. Rand being the only notary in West Camp. A short time before the assault, Mr. Youngs had been sued in a civil action which Rand commenced against him before Justice Coon. Rand lost that suit. Upon his conviction for assault, Rand was fined $10 and he appealed to the county court. Judge Jenkins has sustained the judgment of conviction. On his trial before Justice Coon, Rand was represented by Corporation Counsel Brinnier; on the argument before Judge Jenkins, he was represented by D. G. Atkins. George F. Kaufman represented the complainant, with Assistant District Attorney Traver, of counsel.

SAVINGS BANKS REDUCE INTEREST

Legislation passed within the past year which requires savings banks to retain annually five per cent of their net earnings for a guarantee fund for the benefit of depositors, has resulted in a reduction of the rate of interest paid by most of the savings banks throughout the state, including the three savings banks in this city, which have reduced their rate of interest from four per cent to three and one-half per cent per annum.

The four per cent per annum rate of interest has been in force in Kingston for the past six years, and that has been the prevailing rate in most of the savings banks of the state. The four per cent rate went into effect in Kingston after the panic of 1907 had subsided, and has been in effect up to and including the dividends that were declared for the six months ending December 31 last. Interest at the rate of 3 1/2 per cent per annum has been declared payable July first by the Ulster County Savings Institution, Rondout Savings Bank and Kingston Savings Bank.

For the past five or six years nearly all the savings banks in the state have paid four per cent interest, but have now returned to their former rate of 3 1/2 per cent.

The law now in effect, which was passed by the last legislature, provides that savings banks must retain five per cent of their net earnings for the benefit of depositors. After the first year the amount to be retained as a guarantee fund is to be increased until the fund amounts to ten per cent.

Savings banks in New York state rarely get six per cent for the use of money as they did in years gone by. For a number of years the prevailing rate has been five per cent and 5 1/2 per cent. That is the interest obtained on first mortgage, and the banks are not allowed to loan for more than fifty per cent of the value of the property on which the loan is secured. Although the interest rate by savings banks for money loaned on mortgage is expressed as either 5 or 5 1/2 per cent, the actual effect is to make loans at 5 per cent. There is a mortgage recording tax of one-half of one per cent on all mortgages, and in effect where the 5 1/2 per cent rate is charged, the bank pays the tax, and where the five per cent rate is charged, the person making the loan pays the tax. This explains the difference in interest rates. In any event the bank receives five per cent and one-half of one per cent is paid to the county clerk at the time the mortgage is recorded, the mortgage tax money divided afterwards between the state and the county.

RAND LOSES AGAIN.

County Court Upholds Conviction for Assault on Old Mr. Youngs.

Judge Jenkins has handed down a decision in the case of The People, respondent, against Nathaniel D. Rand, appellant, which was argued before him recently at county court chambers. Rand who lives at West Camp, was convicted before Police Justice Benjamin M. Coon of Saugerties of assault in the third degree, committed on Edward F. Youngs, an old man who went to Rand's house to get him to acknowledge a paper as notary public, Rand being the only notary in West Camp. A short time before the assault, Mr. Youngs had been sued in a civil action which Rand commenced against him before Justice Coon. Rand lost that suit. Upon his conviction for assault, Rand was fined $10 and he appealed to the county court. Judge Jenkins has sustained the judgment of conviction. On his trial before Justice Coon, Rand was represented by Corporation Counsel Brinnier; on the argument before Judge Jenkins, he was represented by D. G. Atkins. George F. Kaufman represented the complainant, with Assistant District Attorney Traver, of counsel.

PALENTOWN.

Palenville, June 22.—The people of this community as well as many others were greatly shocked when the sad news came of Benjamin Gray, who became so badly scalded on Saturday last, while in the employ of Winston and Company, and of his death at the Camp Hospital at Brown's Station on Sunday. Mrs. Gray, a bride of only one week, besides the numerous relatives and friends have the sympathy of the entire community. Funeral was held at the Samsonville M. E. Church Wednesday at 2 p. m., and was very largely attended. The Rev. R. Braunstein officiated. Interment in Palentown cemetery.

A telegram was received by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Barringer on Wednesday bearing the news of the death of Solomon B. Markle of White Mills, Pa. Mr. Markle was born here, but when quite young he went with his aunt to White Mills, where he secured employment in a glass factory and has worked there for a number of years. He leaves a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his loss. His funeral was held at White Mills, Thursday, June 18.

Mr. Humiston, the undertaker of Kerhonkson, and wife have been called to this place a number of times in the past few months. Miss Emily Rose of Grahamsville visited friends in this place. Remember the Fourth of July celebration at Samsonville where a good time is always had and everybody welcome.

WOMEN AT PRIZE FIGHT.

They Will be a Feature of the Johnson-Moran Mill.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Paris, June 23.—A striking feature of the prize fight between Jack Johnson, the American negro, and Frank Moran, of Pittsburgh, for the heavyweight title on Saturday night will be the large number of women present. Hundreds of women purchased ringside seats today, some of them paying as much as $75 and $100. A number of American and other foreign tourists will come to Paris from London, Berlin and other cities to see the contest.

The selection of Georges Carpentier, the French middleweight champion as referee, has caused general satisfaction and has stimulated public interest. The picking of Carpentier, to whose name no pugilistic scandal has been attached, seems to stamp the contest as being "On the level."

Moran's trainers are advising him to keep after Johnson in order to make the negro keep in action all the time. They figure that these tactics will wear the champion down and cause him to tire and give Moran an opening for a finishing blow. In his recent fights, Johnson's opponents have fought warily and have given the negro no cause for anxiety.

Betting went on today at odds of 2 to 1 with Johnson on the short end.

GROWTH OF CALVES.

Heredity Versus Food in the Development of Cattle.

It has become a dictum among those most interested in raising of cattle that "breed" and "out-put of milk" determines the quality and quantity of milk. The food of an animal may be varied within very wide limits, without altering the composition of its milk, provided that the ration is sufficient in amount. The only constituent which is known to be altered in milk by changes in the food supply of the mother is the fat. The composition of butter may be affected somewhat by the food supplied to the cow; but normally little if any influence on the chemical make-up of the milk can be produced by wide variations in the mineral content of the food.

The question as to what extent, if any, the structure and development of the offspring can be affected by the character of the maternal diet is somewhat analogous to that which concerns the possible alterations in the milk produced by the mother. An example current among cattle raisers is that a high mineral content in the ration will cause excessive bone formation in the off-spring.

It has been remarked that "assumptions in nutrition are dangerous." The questions raised in the foregoing discussion cannot well be tested by experiment on human beings; but the effect which a high time-intake by the mother may have on the skeletal development of the offspring has been subjected to experiment in the domestic animals. Since grains are deficient in calcium, farm rations made up wholly of them will not supply to growing animals a sufficient amount of this element. For this reason growing or breeding swine fed entirely on grain, should receive an additional supply of calcium, either as calcium carbonate or calcium phosphate or in leguminous hay. Any drain on the organism with consequent loss of calcium is thus averted. The new Wisconsin experiments, however, have shown that though the nutrition of the mother has a great influence on the offspring, the size is not modified by the liberal supply of any one element. Although a high calcium ration, containing over five times as much lime as the standard ration, was added to the feed of the mother during the entire period of gestation, no evidence was gained that the skeleton of the fetus was increased in any dimension or in calcium content thereby. If size can be influenced at all by the quantitative relation of the nutrients supplied, it is clear that many factors are involved and not a single mineral element. Size, says the Journal of the American Medical Association, is in very large measure fixed by heredity.

Cottekill, June 23.—Arthur Weeks, who has the contract for repainting the Reformed Chapel, has just finished putting the first coat on.

It is rumored that a petition is soon to be gotten up and every one is going to sign it to have H. J. Hoffman at Binnewater reopen his meat market. Since the fire which destroyed his store and market Mr. Hoffman has reopened his store but not his meat market.

L. R. Conner, J. A. Keator and A. J. Keator went to Accord one afternoon last week on a fishing trip in Lewis' Metz. We have been unable to ascertain just how many fish, if any, they caught but understand that on their way there in turning out to pass a wagon on a sandy piece of road the rear of the car skidded nearly throwing John off the rear of the car where he was sitting, but the car soon righted itself and he was able to again regain his seat without falling off.

There will be a number of changes in the train schedule on the O. & W. this Sunday.

Dimple Keator, who has been ill, is recovering.

The showers of Friday evening and Monday morning have greatly revived everything in general.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Conner spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Conner at Binnewater.

R. B. Walker is spending some time at McGraw, where he was called on account of the death of his father.

TRADE COMMISSION BILL IS REPORTED

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 23.—The opening gun of the administration's anti-trust program was fired in the senate today when the committee on interstate commerce favorably reported the Newlands bill for the formation of a federal trade commission.

In recognizing the necessity for the immediate establishment of the trade commission, the committee stated that the bureau of corporations had been limited in its actions because it was not given the authority necessary to act independently.

"The establishment of a trade commission at the same time that the interstate commerce commission was established," reported the committee, "would have prevented the extraordinary development of monopolistic organizations industry. If this commission had been in existence during this period we would not have to deal with such organizations as the United States Steel Corporation, the International Harvester Company or the American Sugar Refining Company; the American Tobacco Company would never have been organized and even the Standard Oil Company would not have survived the dissolution of the original Standard Oil Trust in 1892. Such a commission would have at least kept within bounds the activities of a multitude of price fixing organizations in different branches of business, which together with the great trusts have been potent causes of the present high cost of living."

The purpose of the trade commission is shown in the report as follows:

"The committee has aimed to provide a body which will have sufficient power, ancillary to the department of justice to aid materially and practically in the enforcement of the Sherman law and to aid the business public as well, and incidentally to build up a comprehensive body of information for the use and advantage of the government and the business world. Its subsequent recommendations to congress will be fortified with actual knowledge of practical conditions, both from the point of view of business desirability and economic tendency and will furnish the congress an analysis of conditions that will give other and further legislation and the certainty and security of foundation commensurate with the vast interests of the public and of the business world, which are at stake."

"If conditions demonstrate and warrant, there will be an awful growth in the power of this body. At the same time the bill clothes itself with power to be, we believe, of material assistance to the department of justice in the enforcement of the Sherman law and of material aid to the business world in building up a body of precedents in the matter of business practices."

"The legislation proposed is in line with the constantly increasing popular sentiment, as demonstrated by the recent poll of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States which declared overwhelmingly for such action. No contention can be made that the work of congress on this subject has been hasty or immature. It has not been in advance of public sentiment, but rather has lagged behind it."

The Newlands bill provides that the commission shall be composed of five members with terms of seven years. Each year the commissioner is to receive $10,000 a year and it is proposed that the trade commission shall absorb the bureau of corporations of the department of commerce and that the duties now devolving upon this bureau in future will be performed by the new commission.

Theater Headaches.

The most frequent cause of headaches occurring during of after the theater is eye strain. People who use the full energy of the delicate muscles to obtain perfect vision, are often unconscious of this strain. In the theater, the continuous effort to keep everything constantly focused exhausts the nerve centers and headache results. The practice of seating the audience in total darkness while they are staring into an intensely lighted stage, is another serious factor. The pupils being widely dilated in the dark, admit the excess of light from the stage, often producing irritation of the eyes which last sometimes for days. Those subject to headaches should never sit where it is necessary to raise the eyes to watch the stage. This unnatural position of the eyes is very tiresome even to those who never have trouble at other times. Unfortunately the theater-going public has not insisted on proper ventilation without drafts. The overheated foul air itself lessens the spectator's vitality and power of endurance. This followed by drafts frequently produces stuffing up of the nose, or cold in the head and a disagreeable headache from internal pressure, which is usually worse the following morning.

Boy Burglars on Probation.

Fred Parslow and Ralph Osterhoudt, the Ponckhookie boy burglars who broke into the store of Mrs. Timothy Curtin on Sycamore street some time Sunday evening, were placed on probation by Recorder Grogan on Monday evening when arraigned and were instructed to report to Miss Ongeltree, the county agent daily. They were also warned to be in the house by 7 o'clock each evening. The boys who live on Ponckhookie street are both about 15 years of age.

Entertainment at South Rondout.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the South Rondout M. E. Church will give an entertainment in the lecture room of the church, Thursday evening, June 25, at 7:45. Doors will open at 7:30. Ice cream will be on sale after the entertainment. The entertainment will have just enough variety to be spicy. You'd better come and see "Coon Creek Courtship." Sallie Grinstead and Johnnie Oberalls may teach you something. They should at least make you laugh.

ARE POLICEWOMEN A SUCCESS? CHIEF ASKS FOR MORE.

Four Los Angeles policewomen. From left to right—Mrs. Frances Griffes, Mrs. Althea Gilbert, Mrs. Rachel D. Shatto and Mrs. Nellie Tarbell.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 23.—Is the policewoman a success? Chief of Police Paterson of Oakland, after investigating the work of the local policewomen, finds that this city can give a very decisive and enthusiastic answer to this in the affirmative. Here are some of the things a policewoman does: She goes into dance halls where she has seen a girl who should not be there and over whom the law has authority and takes her home. They go through the city looking for the discouraged, the deluded, the incorrigible, and to each, according to her kind, is administered the proper treatment by these wise women of the police force who are the friends of the vicious and the abandoned. The chief of police is so pleased with the work that they have been doing that he has asked for an additional squad of policewomen.

BADLY HURT BY FALL IN ICE HOUSE

P. J. Reis of 69 O'Neil street is in the Kingston City Hospital with a fractured skull, a broken shoulder and a badly bruised body as the result of a fall while at work in the Schenck ice house at Port Ewen. The fracture of the skull, however, is not considered a bad one and it is expected that he will recover. Dr. Frank Keator is attending him. The accident happened early this morning while Reis was busy taking the hay off the ice in one of the rooms preparatory to loading it in a boat for shipping. In some manner he lost his footing and fell to the room below, which was empty, a distance of about twenty-five feet. He was picked up and hurried to the hospital in an automobile.

Telling the people through newspapers and in other ways of the 160 or more species of birds to be found in their home town is the task which the Sioux City Bird Club has set itself.

American physicians who think of practicing medicine in Egypt are warned through consular advice that the Khedive's government will henceforth require a license, and licenses will be granted only to graduates of recognized colleges.

A Playground Institute has been organized in Cleveland, Ohio, to train workers for the local playgrounds and recreation centers. Dr. A. E. Peterson, director of the department of hygiene in the public schools, inaugurated the work.

Five in every ten children observed outside of school hours in the average city are loafing—doing nothing at all because as they say, "There is nothing to do," according to Arthur C. Moses, of the Washington Playground Association.

By substituting plenty of good social opportunities at the school and meeting the pupils halfway, the school authorities succeed in getting the students at the West Chester, Pa., High school to give up voluntarily the secret societies in the school.

They believe in "class athletics" at Tacoma, Wash., the kind where all the members of a class take part. For the boys the contest is kicking the football for distance; for girls the event is throwing the basketball for distance. In 113 classes the entire membership without exception took part; and even in the upper four grades, where no effort was made to organize all the classes, 65 per cent of the pupils participated.

Kindergartens for colored children are being adopted in different parts of the south as one of the agencies for improving social conditions that have troubled two generations. Richmond, Va., has just opened an experimental kindergarten which has already created such interest among negro parents and the school authorities that it is expected it will soon be made permanent. The Richmond kindergarten was opened by the National Kindergarten Association of New York at the request of Richmond people who knew of the success of the demonstration given among the colored children of Chattanooga, Tenn., where the local association assumed the care and support of the school on March 1. Kindergartens for white children in the south have also been inaugurated by the association and later carried on locally.

Hamburg, June 23.—The North German Lloyd liner Konigin Luise and the German steamer Cobra were in collision today. The Konigin Luise had her bow smashed and began shipping water so rapidly that her passengers were taken off and landed. The prow of the liner caught the Cobra amidships and she was badly damaged both above and below the water line. The Konigin Luise is from Bremen. The liner's tonnage is 6,790. According to the 1914 issue of the American Bureau of Shipping's record, the Konigin Luise is commanded by O. Volger.

SCIENCE AND SUNDAY.

The "Day of Rest" and Effect on Human Efficiency.

The refreshing influence of the weekly "day of rest" on a person subjected to the strenuous routine of a busy life is a feature which he himself can duly appreciate in the effects on his "feelings" and "spirits." The efficiency of the working man, the length of the working-day, the interjection of pauses for rest in the schedule of labor for persons of different ages and stations in life—questions of this sort are constantly arising for solution on a scientific basis. Not only in the field of manual labor, but also in the case of the school-child, the office-boy, the factory-girl, the banker and the merchant, efficiency is the key-note of the times. Fatigue is the enemy of efficiency; and to detect and compensate for or overcome it, is the duty of those concerned with the promotion of human welfare.

In view of this says The Journal of the American Medical Association it is of more than passing interest, to know that Dr. Martin and some of his associates in the Laboratory of Physiology at the Harvard Medical School, have been making a careful study of the whole question of fatigue and efficiency from a physiological standpoint. A long series of experiments have been made on first-year medical students who were following a regular routine of school work during six days of each week. The routine was interrupted weekly by the Sunday recess, an interval occupied variously by the students, but in no case in precisely the manner of the week days. The daily observations made on these persons during several weeks show that at the beginning of the week the nerve reaction tends to be high, that from then until the end of the week there is a fairly continuous decline, and that following the interruption of the routine by the intervention of Sunday, it returns to the original high point.

The decline is interpreted as a cumulative result of general fatigue incident to the routine. What is even more significant, however, is the added fact that a pronounced break in the routine—such as the "day of rest"—occasions—may bring about a return of sensitiveness to a high point or, in other words, it restores the nervous tone. Studies continued in this direction should lead to some useful conclusions regarding the maximum of work, with respect to both its duration and type, that should determine the conditions under which the organism of man may be maintained without depletion.

Free Glasses to School Children.

It often happens that schoolchildren are in great need of glasses and yet have not the money to buy them. Perhaps the eyes have been examined in the early fall, by the teacher, according to the printed instruction and some defect has been found. Maybe the child cannot see the blackboard. Maybe the teacher finds that although the child can see well at a distance, he frequently complains of headache and eyeache, after getting his lessons. Maybe the eyes are red, or maybe the child is cross-eyed. At all events the teacher discovers that something is wrong, so she sends a printed card to the parent, which notifies him that his child's eyes are not right, and advises him to seek competent advice. The mother or the school nurse, therefore, takes the child to the oculist who discovers that glasses are urgently needed, to enable the child properly to receive offered school instruction. Without glasses this cannot be done, and the child is seriously hampered in the acquirement of an education. If the parents cannot, under these circumstances, buy the glasses, what is to be done? This is a serious question and one which will have to be answered. There should be a fund in the hands of the school board of every city to meet this emergency. This fund may be raised by contributions, if necessary, but the best way is to have it come from the city treasury. The amount required would not be large. Suitable arrangements could be made with some wholesale optical houses, to furnish these glasses at almost cost.

In Cleveland, where school examinations are performed quite thoroughly, less than 400 pairs of glasses are given away to poor children annually. This probably does not cost Cleveland $400 a year and think of the enormous benefits that are produced. Schoolbooks, lunches, etc., are given away in many cities, why not then free glasses?

Double Header Next Sunday.

There will be a double header at McVey's Field on Sunday afternoon. The first game will be called at 1 o'clock when the Barnham A. C. and the Locals will clash. The Monograms have won thirteen straight games and expect to annex the scalp of the Sox.

Church of the Comforter.

Every member of the junior choir is requested to meet in the church Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The Thursday evening prayer meeting will be omitted on account of commencement.

The annual picnic of the Bible school will be held at Leggs Mills on Tuesday, July 7.

PLANS CAREER EARLY

CHARLIE HERZOG IS YOUNGEST MANAGER IN BASEBALL.

Decided When Youngster to Become Baseball Player, and Everything He Did Was Pointed to That End.

Charles ("Buck") Herzog of Cincinnati is a success in baseball—a big league manager at the age of twenty-eight, because, when a kid, he decided upon a plan and went through with it.

He decided early in life to be a ball player, and everything he did was pointed toward that end. As a result he is the youngest manager in the majors, is rated as a star infielder, and one of the best base runners, owns a 170-acre farm, and is so fixed, even at twenty-eight, that he could retire from the diamond and live comfortably.

Herzog had a motto when a kid. It was this: "Play every day." He followed his motto. When he couldn't play with boys of his own age he hunted up younger chaps.

He'd play with any lad who would toss a ball. One day he played with older boys who had an organized team and uniforms, and the next day he might be playing toss in an alley or hitting flies on a corner lot.

He didn't care with whom or where he played, as long as he had a baseball in his hand every day.

At the age of sixteen Herzog was captain of the fastest semi-pro team in Baltimore, his home town. At eighteen he was manager of the Ridgely (Md.) team in a little league. At twenty he started his career as a professional with the Reading (Pa.) club of the Tri-State league. At twenty-one he was tried in the majors and made good.

Herzog is a success because he has hustled. He goes into everything with heart and soul. He always gives his best no matter how trivial a proposition may be. He works at top speed all the time.

"My tip to the youngster who wants to make good in baseball or anything else is to hustle all the time," says Herzog.

"A boy, according to my idea, should pick out some line of work, and give the work all his attention. The lad who picks out one thing and sticks to it generally is a bigger success than the chap who hops around from one thing to another.

"The big thing, though, is to hustle. Always be doing something and make that something count."

OVER-INDULGENCE IN WATER

To Flood the Stomach With Water Is Unnecessary, and Therefore, Injurious to System.

Ball players drink too much water, says Milwaukee Sentinel. They sometimes drink too much other stuff, but we'll waive that and stick to the main proposition.

Water is fattening, and it is heart wearing. Possibly some physicians may take issue with the former statement, but there are some of us who have actually demonstrated the fact that that beats a barrel of theory. That excessive water drinking is wearing on the heart is also supportable by practice.

The fact of the matter is, thirst is not a stomach manifestation. To flood the stomach with water is unnecessary and, therefore, foolish. Athletes who rinse their mouths and throats with water when thirsty, but who do not swallow the water, have much more efficiency than those who frequently drink water. Seven ordinary glasses of liquid—water, tea, coffee, beer or whatever one drinks in 24 hours, is ample for all health purposes and the balance is worse than useless.

Cub Payroll is Largest.

The story is going the rounds that the Cub payroll is the largest in the big leagues this year. Close to $100,000 is being paid out to men that are now only able to hold down sixth place in the race.

P. J. Reis of 69 O'Neil street is in the Kingston City Hospital with a fractured skull, a broken shoulder and a badly bruised body as the result of a fall while at work in the Schenck ice house at Port Ewen. The fracture of the skull, however, is not considered a bad one and it is expected that he will recover. Dr. Frank Keator is attending him. The accident happened early this morning while Reis was busy taking the hay off the ice in one of the rooms preparatory to loading it in a boat for shipping. Charles ("Buck") Herzog of Cincinnati is a success in baseball—a big league manager at the age of twenty-eight, because, when a kid, he decided upon a plan and went through with it.

He decided early in life to be a ball player, and everything he did was pointed toward that end. As a result he is the youngest manager in the majors, is rated as a star infielder, and one of the best base runners, owns a 170-acre farm, and is so fixed, even at twenty-eight, that he could retire from the diamond and live comfortably.

Herzog had a motto when a kid. It was this: "Play every day." He followed his motto. When he couldn't play with boys of his own age he hunted up younger chaps.

He'd play with any lad who would toss a ball. One day he played with older boys who had an organized team and uniforms, and the next day he might be playing toss in an alley or hitting flies on a corner lot.

He didn't care with whom or where he played, as long as he had a baseball in his hand every day.

At the age of sixteen Herzog was captain of the fastest semi-pro team in Baltimore, his home town. At eighteen he was manager of the Ridgely (Md.) team in a little league. At twenty he started his career as a professional with the Reading (Pa.) club of the Tri-State league. At twenty-one he was tried in the majors and made good.

Herzog is a success because he has hustled. He goes into everything with heart and soul. He always gives his best no matter how trivial a proposition may be. He works at top speed all the time.

"My tip to the youngster who wants to make good in baseball or anything else is to hustle all the time," says Herzog.

"A boy, according to my idea, should pick out some line of work, and give the work all his attention. The lad who picks out one thing and sticks to it generally is a bigger success than the chap who hops around from one thing to another.

"The big thing, though, is to hustle. Always be doing something and make that something count."

OVER-INDULGENCE IN WATER

To Flood the Stomach With Water is Unnecessary, and Therefore, Injurious to System.

Ball players drink too much water, says Milwaukee Sentinel. They sometimes drink too much other stuff, but we'll waive that and stick to the main proposition.

Water is fattening, and it is heart wearing. Possibly some physicians may take issue with the former statement, but there are some of us who have actually demonstrated the fact and that beats a barrel of theory. That excessive water drinking is wearing on the heart is also supportable by practice.

The fact of the matter is, thirst is not a stomach manifestation. To flood the stomach with water is unnecessary and, therefore, foolish. Athletes who rinse their mouths and throats with water when thirsty, but who do not swallow the water, have much more efficiency than those who frequently drink water. Seven ordinary glasses of liquid—water, tea, coffee, beer or whatever one drinks in 24 hours, is ample for all health purposes and the balance is worse than useless.

STEPHEN'S LETTER WAS A WARRANT

Through the clever work of the local police Stephen Marlovitch, wanted in Beacon City on a charge of defrauding a boarding house keeper, was caught this morning and held to await the arrival of an officer from that city. The authorities of Beacon City learned that Stephen had come to Ulster county and sent on a warrant to the local police. Monday afternoon Sergeant Hanley got into communication with several of Stephen's friends but was unable to locate him through them and finally he told them that a letter for Steve was at the city hall and if Steve came in he could get it. This morning Steve called for his letter. He found not only a letter awaiting him but also a warrant for his arrest. It was learned later that Steve had been working on the state road Brown's Station.

Last Session Before Summer Vacation Held This Morning.

School opened at the usual hour this morning, with a practically full attendance. The usual preliminary work of the morning was taken up by the teachers, and then instead of lessons the teachers and principals set themselves to completing the work which is required of them before school could be dismissed. This work included closing the books, making certain reports and doing other work that is required by the education department.

When this work was completed, exercises were held in such of the rooms whose pupils had been able to prepare for them, and finally the signal dismissing the pupils until fall was sounded.

On account of the examinations in the different grades, the pupils have had but little time to prepare for any extensive exercises.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 23.—Irregularity was displayed by the list at the opening of the stock market today. Speculative interest centered in Southern Pacific at the opening on account of the gain of 3% which occurred yesterday in that issue following the announcement of the U. S. supreme court decision making valid the title of valuable oil properties in California. There was profit taking in Southern Pacific at the beginning. Western Union sold off 1/2 and among the other stocks which sustained fractional losses were the following: Utah Copper, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting, United States Steel Common, Union Pacific, Reading, Pennsylvania, Northern Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Erie, St. Paul and Anaconda. Utah Copper made a partial recovery within the first half hour. United States Rubber, Chesapeake and Ohio and Missouri Pacific opened slightly higher, but within a few minutes Missouri Pacific was selling under Monday's final. The curb was quiet. Americans in London were irregular, with Southern Pacific the most prominent.

Noon.—Although many of the important issues were slightly off from the opening, due to the extreme dullness in liquidation, there was but little evidence of weakness. Pennsylvania Railroad was dull, selling down 1/4 to 112 1/4. Norfolk & Western moved up 1/4. Steel Common, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific declined 1/4. Reading was down 1/4. Call money loaning at 1 1/2 per cent. 2:30.—Union Pacific sold down to 155 1/2 in the last hour against 157 at the close yesterday. Pennsylvania snatched its best and Southern Pacific ranged slightly under its opening. The tone was quiet.

The stock market closed dull; governments unchanged, other bonds steady.

The early morning paper train from New York city was about an hour late in reaching Kingston this morning due to the fact that something went wrong with the engine hauling the train at Morgan's Middle, near Jones Point, making it necessary to await the arrival of another engine to continue the trip up the river.

NEW LEAGUE A LAUGHABLE BLUFF

(By Frank G. Menke.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 23.—"A laughable bluff" is the way baseball experts today are terming the "plans" of organized baseball to form a third major league from a combination of four International League and four American Association teams.

Those who have analyzed the "plan" have been shooting holes through it and calling it the most highly improbable that would be attempted by wise baseball men. The mere lifting of the draft rule from eight minor league clubs would not give those teams a major league status. The players would remain as they are now—of minor league calibre—and the public couldn't be bunched into believing otherwise.

But assuming that the "plan" is being given real consideration by the baseball powers, it is certain that a fine mess would follow when the National Commission begins selecting the eight teams for the new league. Every one of the 16 magnates holding franchises in the American Association and the International League would want to get in. The fans in every one of those 16 towns would feel they are entitled to see "major league" baseball, and it's a pretty safe bet that the fans in the eight towns that were left out in the cold would be mighty peevish about it and quite liable to quit patronizing the parks.

And the shrieks that would escape from the eight magnates who were not raised to the status of major league moguls would silence a battery of 14 inch guns.

Then the question of forming the new class AA league comes up. The scheme, as outlined, is to take the four remaining teams in the International League and the four remaining teams in the American Association and form them into a class AA league or league. A beautiful scheme, until one stops to figure out its practical impossibility on account of railroad mileage.

Most of the teams in the American Association and International League lost money last year. How could minor league clubs make money, or even keep away from bankruptcy if they were compelled to make jumps from Rochester, Montreal, Toronto, Jersey City or New York to such western cities as Minneapolis, St. Paul and Kansas City? Would the magnates of the eight clubs who were not to have membership in the new third league submit tamely to a plan that would almost triple their railroad mileage bill and in no way whatsoever, increase their gate attendance.

The consensus seems to be that "the plan" is a monumental bluff; that it never will materialize, and that it never has been given serious consideration by the National Commission. It is figured that the commission permitted such an announcement to be made with the dual purpose in mind of frightening the Federal Leaguers and of pacifying the element in the American Association and the International League which has been hard hit by the Federals and which has threatened to revolt.

STEPHEN'S LETTER WAS A WARRANT

Through the clever work of the local police Stephen Marlovitch, wanted in Beacon City on a charge of defrauding a boarding house keeper, was caught this morning and held to await the arrival of an officer from that city. The authorities of Beacon City learned that Stephen had come to Ulster county and sent on a warrant to the local police. Monday afternoon Sergeant Hanley got into communication with several of Stephen's friends but was unable to locate him through them and finally he told them that a letter for Steve was at the city hall and if Steve came in he could get it. This morning Steve called for his letter. He found not only a letter awaiting him but also a warrant for his arrest. It was learned later that Steve had been working on the state road near Brown's Station.

CITY SCHOOLS CLOSED.

Last Session Before Summer Vacation Held This Morning.

All the city grammar schools closed for the summer vacation this morning.

In all of the schools there were simple exercises, including declamations, recitations and singing, but no elaborate programs were rendered.

School opened at the usual hour this morning, with a practically full attendance. The usual preliminary work of the morning was taken up by the teachers, and then instead of lessons the teachers and principals set themselves to completing the work which is required of them before school could be dismissed. This work included closing the books, making certain reports and doing other work that is required by the education department.

When this work was completed, exercises were held in such of the rooms whose pupils had been able to prepare for them, and finally the signal dismissing the pupils until fall was sounded.

On account of the examinations in the different grades, the pupils have had but little time to prepare for any extensive exercises.

HOLDUP GANG IN MARLBOROUGH

Three men, names unknown, held up a German near Marlborough village Monday night and took $45 away from him. During the process others came along and the villains fled, pursued by the populace. Two men were caught and given a hearing before Justice Johnson today, but the German was unable to identify them. There seems to be great excitement and very general incoherence in Marlborough over the matter and it is impossible to ascertain whether the two men were released or sent on their way to jail.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 23.—Irregularity was displayed by the list at the opening of the stock market today. Speculative interest centered in Southern Pacific at the opening on account of the gain of 3% which occurred yesterday in that issue following the announcement of the U. S. supreme court decision making valid the title of valuable oil properties in California. There was profit taking in Southern Pacific at the beginning. Western Union sold off 1/2 and among the other stocks which sustained fractional losses were the following: Utah Copper, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting, United States Steel Common, Union Pacific, Reading, Pennsylvania, Northern Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Erie, St. Paul and Anconda, Utah Copper made a partial recovery within the first half hour. United States Rubber, Chesapeake and Ohio and Missouri Pacific opened slightly higher, but within a few minutes Missouri Pacific was selling under Monday's final. The curb was quiet. Americans in London were irregular, with Southern Pacific the most prominent.

Noon.—Although many of the important issues were slightly off from the opening, due to the extreme dullness in liquidation, there was but little evidence of weakness. Pennsylvania Railroad was dull, selling down 1/2 to 112 1/2. Norfolk & Western moved up 1/2. Steel Common, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific declined 1/2. Reading was down 1/2. Call money loaning at 1 1/2 per cent. 2:30.—Union Pacific sold down to 155 1/2 in the last hour against 157 at the close yesterday. Pennsylvania shrank its best and Southern Pacific ranged slightly under its opening. The tone was quiet.

BEST FIELDER IN THE NATIONAL LEAGUE

George Burns of New York Giants.

George Burns is the best fielder in the National League, according to Manager McGraw of the Giants. "George has it born in him," is the terse way in which the Little Napoleon explains it. Burns joined the Giants as a regular late in 1912, and made good from the start. He is normally a .300 hitter, very fast on the bases and uses his head at all stages.

Stories Aid the Managers.

Miller Huggins is Having His First Real Chance With St. Louis Cardinals This Season.

If this thing keeps up, managers of major league teams that are in the rut may be going around to the newspaper boys and the other professional goat getters, pleading with them to start campaigns for their beheading. Take the case of Hank O'Day. The pink sheets no sooner began to swing the ax for him than his team started on a winning streak. Likewise Miller Huggins. As soon as the headlines announced that he was to be decapitated his team started on a spurt such as Cardinals have not enjoyed for years.

The suggestion is offered George Stallings. If he can coax Boston scribes to quit trying to reassure the public and have them denounce him as an impossibility as a team manager the lowly Braves may climb into the first division. But the subject of this brochure is Miller Huggins, the tiny manager of the Cardinals. He is getting his first real chance this season and look at what he is doing. Last year he took a disgruntled team, with a considerable portion of its membership sulking on him. No manager can win with sulkers on his team. Huggins cleared his decks in a trade that was all to his advantage. He developed a young pitcher or two, and a catcher, convinced his team as a whole that he was a man among men and deserving of loyal co-operation, and set sail. They say his destination is "First Division." It sure looks like it. The only thing Huggins fears now is that the people who tried to get his goat earlier will overdo the praise for, as between flatterers and knockers, he really believes the latter are to be preferred, at least as long as they come out in the open with it.

President Hugh Jones of the Lincoln club announces that his team will be known as Tigers from this on, instead of Antelopes.

Bert Maxwell, pitcher for the Brooklyn Feds, is out with a broken arm. Maxwell was hit by a pitched ball in a game with St. Louis.

Harry Lord is as rare a species as a hummingbird that can show a horse. Lord has quit baseball because he says he "felt himself slumping as a player."

Mordcael Brown, manager of the St. Louis Feds, is said to have found a very capable substitute infielder in John Misce, who was in the Class D Union association last season.

Tom Seaton said he quit the Phillies because they worked him too hard. Well, out of the first 26 games played by the Brooklyn Feds Seaton had been pitched in 15 of them. Does he call that rest?

A Kansas City writer comments as follows: Bunney Brief is doing much this year to keep the Blues up in the race. The peppery first sacker is showing much better form this season than he did last, both in fielding and at bat.

Attorney General Carmody, State Auditor Quinn and Superintendent of Public Works Peck will be guests at the Stuyvesant on Thursday night arriving here on Mr. Carmody's yacht and going on to the Poughkeepsie boat races on Friday.

Among the Baseball Players

Chance is looking better this year than he has for several seasons.

Charles Herzog is succeeding in Cincinnati because he knows how to handle his directors.

Fans will notice that Tim-ot-getting-the-breaks still holds his job as a major league manager.

Pitcher Ed Pfeffer of the Brooklyn is a brother of Jeff Pfeffer, the former Boston and Cub pitcher.

It is said that Wagner will be used as scout by the Red Sox if he does not get into playing condition soon.

Griffith's young heavies are giving Walter Johnson plenty of assistance in keeping the Senators in the limelight.

Hugh Jennings says that if he had the White Sox pitching staff he'd run away with the American league pennant.

Outfielder Leslie Mann of the Boston Braves had the honor of hitting the first home run of the season at Forbes field.

If John McGraw said all of the things he is credited with saying he'd be so busy talking that he'd have no time for managing.

A Milwaukee admirer wishes attention called to the pitching of Tom Dougherty, who has performed like a youngster this season.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTS REVIEW

Heinie Zimmerman, of the Cubs, seems to have reformed this year. He is far below his average of other years in the business of umpire baiting. Heinie, in the years that have fled, used to count that day lost whose low descending sun marked no quarrel with umpires begun.

However, one shouldn't be premature about concluding that Heinie has completely reformed. Perhaps his reform has been only a public one. It must be borne in mind that Hennerly O'Day, who manages the Cubs and tries to manage Heinie as well, just recently escaped serving a sentence as umpire. Who knows but that Heinie does most of his baiting in the club house now, with Hennerly as the sole object of his cute remarks.

It seems to us that too much fuss is being made over the fact that Honus Wagner of Pittsburgh has compiled something like 3,000 hits. Nothing wonderful in that. Georges Carpentier, a French person, made twice that many hits when he met Bombardier Wells, the oft bombardier Britisher, in the ring some short time ago, and it didn't take Georges 17 years to do it either.

And unless we reckon wrong, even Georges' record will fall by the wayside on Saturday night provided Francis Moran remains on his feet for three or four rounds, and that the bout with Johnson isn't framed.

Something's amiss. It's been over two months since anybody soaked John McGraw from the rear. Perhaps John has taken to walking backward.

No wonder the International Olympic Games committee had such a darned hard time trying to define an amateur. It's pretty hard, you know, to define something that doesn't exist.

Out in Chicago they're calling Charlie White the lightweight champion, because he handed a beating to Willie Ritchie in their recent no-decision ten round bout in Milwaukee and right away Charlie begins to act like a regular champion. He has accepted a vaudeville offer.

For the benefit of the very few people who may not know it, we wish to state that Jonathan Guttenko is the bantamweight champion of the world. He recently knocked out one John Couton.

It looks just now as if Charlie Herzog is going to deprive the Cincinnati directors of the great little pleasure that they indulged in each and every autumn—firing the hold over manager and hiring a new one. Of course if Charlie's gang doesn't win the pennant but merely finishes in second or third place, that fact will give the directors an excuse for firing him. But Charlie has made the directors uneasy by declaring that he's going to win the pennant.

If the dope continues to reverse itself in the case of the Naps this year as it has in other years, they ought to win the 1914 pennant.

In other years everybody picked the Naps to be in the fight all the way. And the Naps got away to a good start in most of those other years. And they invariably cracked.

This year, not even the bravest Cleveland sport writer figured the Naps in the pennant fight. And the Naps have lived up to the early predictions by skipping down to the bottom of the American League heap and remaining there.

Therefore, we figure that if the Naps are still possessed of that faculty of upsetting the dope about midseason and going just the other way than the dope pointed, they'll shortly begin shooting up through the American League and finally catapult themselves into the world series. However, we are not making any bets on this.

Frank Hinkey, coach of the Yale football squad has some pretty high hopes for the Bulldog eleven of 1914. But he'd be considerably more hopeful if it wasn't for a fellow named Brickley.

Mr. Wagner's batting eye seems to be conspicuous by its absence.

Ty Cobb can get into almost as much trouble as Jack Johnson when he gets going right.

It was not very clabby of the Giants to grab the whole series from their old pal Herzog's Cincinnati team.

It is the Bulldog against the Tiger at the Polo Grounds in New York today with the Yale baseball nine pitted against the Princeton team.

Although the Athletics got only two hits yesterday, they won easily from the Browns, shutting them out.

The Pirates' elation over getting back into third place in the National League line-up was short lived. As a result of their defeat and St. Louis' victory yesterday Pittsburgh dropped back into fourth place.

On June 10, the Indianapolis Federals were beaten by the St. Louis team which made 13 runs. Since then the Hoosier Federals have won 13 straight games.

The members of the Lynn team in the New England League went on a strike yesterday when they heard that Arlie Latham, the eminent coaching expert, was to be employed as manager. Evidently Arlie's talents are not appreciated in Lynn.

LACE CURTAIN MILLS ARE BUSY

Flourishing Industry That Ships its Product All Over the Country and Has Made Great Growth.

The United States Lace Curtain Mills, located and operating a most extensive and interesting plant on Cornell street, is one of the most thriving and progressive industries in the city.

The company started in the manufacturing of lace curtains and numerous other lace goods in Kingston in 1903 and built a large brick building, which has been added to since, at a cost of nearly $100,000 and installed over $175,000 worth of machinery in the plant. In 1903 there were five jackard looms, which is the machine which weaves the curtains, and the factory employed but one hundred hands, making lace curtains exclusively. Today there are eleven jackard looms, nearly two hundred hands are employed, and in order to fill the large orders, both night and day shifts are used. The company now, not only makes lace curtains, but many other lace articles such as bed spreads, center pieces, table covers and many other useful articles. About six tons of cotton thread are used weekly in the construction of nearly forty thousand yards of lace.

Their buildings are all connected and are lighted by arc and incandescent lamps. The buildings are heated by steam and everything is made as comfortable as possible for the people employed.

The curtain designs are made by the designer employed by the company, who originates the different figures in the curtain. This is the first step in the construction of a lace curtain. The design is sent to the reader and from it a small curtain is made by hand. From this sample a pattern is made which resembles very much a music roll of a player piano, it being filed with small holes, which regulate the needles of the weaving machines. This pattern is placed at the top of the jackard loom and by the use of over 13,000 different threads the curtain is woven. One machine is capable of turning out six sets of curtains at a time, and nearly two hundred a day.

The job of the weaver is a very important one, as he must be able to detect any one of the 13,000 threads that might not be picked up by the machine. If the loom does fail to catch a thread the work is later repaired in the mending room. Here the curtains are gone over and if a flaw exists it is mended by a machine resembling a sewing machine, which picks up the broken threads and weaves shut the holes that have been left. There are twenty of these machines operated by girls. After the curtains are thoroughly examined they are sent to be washed and bleached. They are placed in a large revolving tub which contains a mixture, which not only removes any dirt or stains, but bleaches them a pure white. They pass through a number of rinse waters, the last being a large vat containing the required amount of starch, to stiffen the curtains. They are then stretched and pass over steam pipes to the ironing machine where they are carefully ironed. From here they go to the linen room where the starched curtains are cut the required length, the edges over handed by machine and folded. They are then pressed between two heated plates and the curtains are ready to be packed in bundles of six, labeled and shipped.

The lace company ships their goods to practically every state in America, besides many foreign countries. They have just filled a big order to a large concern in Louisville, Kentucky.

The mills have now been running for eleven years and have been in constant operation. Kingston is mighty fortunate in having this concern, as it is one of the largest in the United States.

Endeavor Rally at West Saugerties.

West Saugerties, June 23.—The Christian Endeavor rally which was held at the West Saugerties Hall on Friday evening, June 19, was a real success. The hall was very beautifully decorated with ferns and roses by Mrs. F. W. Cole and Mrs. D. H. Myers.

John Fellows of Saugerties opened the meeting with a song service in which every one took part after which the Rev. Mr. Hess of Blue Mountain and the Rev. Mr. Hickman of Saugerties took an active part and gave us words of encouragement. Following this the Rev. Mr. Wilsey of Woodstock delivered an excellent address on "Power." At the close of the service refreshments were served by the ladies of the Christian Endeavor Society of West Saugerties and every one present enjoyed themselves to the utmost extent. About 11 o'clock the Saugerties friends of about 50 in number started for their homes giving the West Saugerties people a vote of thanks for the pleasant time they had and were invited to come to West Saugerties again. Always come to West Saugerties when you want a good time.

Biggest in Captivity.

James S. Winne, proprietor of the Stuyvesant Hotel, received by express this morning one of the largest turtles that was ever received in this city. It was a large green back weighing nearly two hundred pounds and as Jim says, "will make good eating" for his many guests. A large crowd gathered around the box containing the turtle, thinking that the hotel was to start an aquarium, but we were informed that the soup kettle would be the home of the animal and the guests well supplied with turtle soup.

Mr. Wagner's batting eye seems to be conspicuous by its absence.

Ty Cobb can get into almost as much trouble as Jack Johnson when he gets going right.

It was not very clubby of the Giants to grab the world series from their old pal Herzog's Cincinnati team.

Although the Athletics got only two hits yesterday, they won easily from the Browns, shutting them out.

The Pirates' elation over getting back into third place in the National League line-up was short lived. As a result of their defeat and St. Louis' victory yesterday Pittsburgh dropped back into fourth place.

On June 10, the Indianapolis Federals were beaten by the St. Louis team which made 13 runs. Since then the Hoosier Federals have won 13 straight games.

The members of the Lynn team in the New England League went on a strike yesterday when they heard that Arlie Latham, the eminent coaching expert, was to be employed as manager. Evidently Arlie's talents are not appreciated in Lynn.

LACE CURTAIN MILLS ARE BUSY

Flourishing Industry That Ships its Product All Over the Country and Has Made Great Growth.

The United States Lace Curtain Mills, located and operating a most extensive and interesting plant on Cornell street, is one of the most thriving and progressive industries in the city.

The company started in the manufacturing of lace curtains and numerous other lace goods in Kingston in 1903 and built a large brick building, which has been added to since, at a cost of nearly $100,000 and installed over $175,000 worth of machinery in the plant. In 1903 there were five jackard looms, which is the machine which weaves the curtains, and the factory employed but one hundred hands, making lace curtains exclusively. Today there are eleven jackard looms, nearly two hundred hands are employed, and in order to fill the large orders, both night and day shifts are used. The company now, not only makes lace curtains, but many other lace articles such as bed spreads, center pieces, table covers and many other useful articles. About six tons of cotton thread are used weekly in the construction of nearly forty thousand yards of lace.

Their buildings are all connected and are lighted by arc and incandescent lamps. The buildings are heated by steam, and everything is made as comfortable as possible for the people employed.

The curtain designs are made by the designer employed by the company, who originates the different figures in the curtain. This is the first step in the construction of a lace curtain. The design is sent to the reader and from it a small curtain is made by hand. From this sample a pattern is made which resembles very much a music roll of a player piano, it being filed with small holes, which regulate the needles of the weaving machines. This pattern is placed at the top of the jackard loom and by the use of over 13,000 different threads the curtain is woven. One machine is capable of turning out six sets of curtains at a time, and nearly two hundred a day.

The job of the weaver is a very important one, as he must be able to detect any one of the 13,000 threads that might not be picked up by the machine. If the loom does fail to catch a thread, the work is later repaired in the mending room. Here the curtains are gone over and if a flaw exists it is mended by a machine resembling a sewing machine, which picks up the broken threads and weaves shut the holes that have been left. There are twenty of these machines operated by girls. After the curtains are thoroughly examined they are sent to be washed and bleached. They are placed in a large revolving tub which contains a mixture, which not only removes any dirt or stains, but bleaches them a pure white. They pass through a number of rinse waters, the last being a large vat containing the required amount of starch, to stiffen the curtains. They are then stretched and pass over steam pipes to the ironing machine where they are carefully ironed. From here they go to the linen room where the starched curtains are cut the required length, the edges over handed by machine and folded. They are then pressed between two heated plates and the curtains are ready to be packed in bundles of six, labeled and shipped.

The lace company ships their goods to practically every state in America, besides many foreign countries. They have just filled a big order to a large concern in Louisville, Kentucky.

The mills have now been running for eleven years and have been in constant operation. Kingston is mighty fortunate in having this concern, as it is one of the largest in the United States.

Endeavor Rally at West Saugerties.

West Saugerties, June 23.—The Christian Endeavor rally which was held at the West Saugerties Hall on Friday evening, June 19, was a real success. The hall was very beautifully decorated with ferns and roses by Mrs. F. W. Cole and Mrs. D. H. Myers.

John Fellows of Saugerties opened the meeting with a song service in which every one took part after which the Rev. Mr. Hess of Blue Mountain and the Rev. Mr. Hickman of Saugerties took an active part and gave us words of encouragement. Following this the Rev. Mr. Wilsey of Woodstock delivered an excellent address on "Power." At the close of the service refreshments were served by the ladies of the Christian Endeavor Society of West Saugerties and every one present enjoyed themselves to the utmost extent. About 11 o'clock the Saugerties friends of about 50 in number started for their homes giving the West Saugerties people a vote of thanks for the pleasant time they had and were invited to come to West Saugerties again. Always come to West Saugerties when you want a good time.

Biggest in Captivity.

James S. Winne, proprietor of the Stuyvesant Hotel, received by express this morning one of the largest turtles that was ever received in the city. It was a large green back weighing nearly two hundred pounds and as Jim says, "will make good eating." for his many guests. A large crowd gathered around the box containing the turtle, thinking that the hotel was to start an aquarium, but were informed that the soup kettle would be the home of the animal and the guests well supplied with turtle soup.

The Public is Invited.

The public is cordially invited to attend the graduation of the eighth grade pupils, which will occur at Kingston Opera House on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. There will be no tickets of admission, those arriving first having choice of seats.
